Reexamination of Certain Patents

Before an application for patent may be issued as a patent, the application must be approved by a patent examiner authorized by the Commissioner to approve the issuance of a patent - ie., a patent examiner having full signatory authority. It has been discovered that a number of patents were approved for issue by an individual who, as an Assistant Examiner, did not have the requisite approval authority. These patents were not reviewed or signed by a patent examiner having the requisite approval authority, even though the files contain a signature which purports to be that of an examiner having approval authority.

A review has been made of all patents listing the individual in question as the Assistant Examiner. A total of 56 patents were found to have an unauthorized signature. The remainder of the patents listing the individual in question were determined to be properly signed by an examiner having approval authority.

To preserve the confidence of the public in the examining process and the presumption of validity that attaches to issued patents, each of the 56 patents will be the subject of a Commissioner-ordered reexamination under 35 U.S.C. 303(a). Reexamination was selected as the appropriate course of action because it provides for a consideration of the patentability of all claims in each patent, and permits the Patent and Trademark Office to initiate corrective action without fee expense to the patent owner. Reexamination will be initiated on each of the affected patents within two months of the date of this notice.

Each of the owners of the patents that will be subject to reexamination pursuant to this notice has been notified. The individual Assistant Examiner involved in the issuance of these patents is no longer employed by the Patent and Trademark Office. In addition, procedures have been implemented to prevent the recurrence of this problem.

Applicability of the last paragraph of U.S.C. §112 to patenability determinations before the Patent and Trademark Office

The following paragraph was first enacted in 1952 as the third paragraph of 35 U.S.C. §112:

> An element in a claim for a combination may be expressed as a means or step for performing a specified function without the recital of structure, material, or acts in support thereof, and such claim shall be construed to cover the corresponding structure, material, or acts described in the specification and equivalents thereof.

Act of July 19, 1952, ch. 950, 66 Stat. 798-99. The scope of a "means" in a claim undergoing a patentability determination over the prior art in the Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) is a function of (I) whether §112's last clause ("and such claim shall be construed to cover . . .") applies and (II) if so, how. It is the position of PTO that the clause does not apply.

I. Applicability of § 112's Last Clause

The applicability of the last clause to ex parte patentability determinations vis-a-vis the prior art is resolved by examining the statutory language, legislative history, CCPA decisions, long-standing PTO interpretation, legislative reenactment, and Federal Circuit cases.

A. History of the Legislation, PTO Interpretation, and CCPA Precedent

The last clause of section 112's last paragraph states that means-plus-function claims "shall be construed to cover the corresponding structure material, or acts described in the specification and equivalents thereof." Act of July 19, 1952, ch. 950, 66 Stat. 798-99. Commentary concerning that clause as enacted in 1952 states that the clause:

> relates primarily to the construction of such claims for the purpose of determining when the claim is infringed (note the use of the word "cover"), and would not appear to have much, if any, applicability in determining the patentability of such claims over the prior art, that is, the Patent Office is not authorized to allow a claim which "reads on" the prior art.

P. J. Federico, "Commentary on the New Patent Act," 35 U.S.C.A. 1, 25-26 (1954). Federico's passage notes that "cover" refers to infringement, and contrasts claim "construction," done for infringement purposes, with PTO patentability determinations. Id. Federico assisted in drafting the Act and was regarded as an expert in the subject-matter of the Act. Report of the Committee on the Judiciary, H.R. 7794, reprinted at 34 J. Pat. Off. Soc'y 549, 552 (1952). Federico's contemporaneous commentary accompanying the new statute in U.S.C.A. deserves consideration as showing the last clause was intended to affect infringement cases and not to affect PTO ex parte patentability determinations vis-a-vis the prior art.

Similarly, Charles J. Zinn's contemporaneous commentary says:

> The final paragraph of section 112 relating to functional claims is new. It recognizes the validity of combination claims wherein the novelty is expressed in functional terms. It offsets the theory of the Halliburton case but does not go so far as to permit the use of single means claims.

Commentary on New Title 35, U.S. Code "Patents," reprinted in 1952 U.S. Code Cong. and Ad. News 2509, 2514 (emphasis added). Zinn's passage notes the final paragraph's effect on claim validity (a post-issuance, court-determined matter) but not on patentability (a pre-issuance, PTO-determined matter). Id. It also notes that the final paragraph addressed Halliburton Co. v. Walker, 329 U.S. 1 (1946). Halliburton involved infringement/validity, not ex parte patentability. Id. Zinn, as the Judiciary Committee's law revision counsel, directed and supervised the actual work of preparing the preliminary drafts and the bill that became Title 35. Report of the Committee on the Judiciary accompanying H.R. 7794, reprinted at 34 J. Pat. Off. Soc'y 549, 552 (1952). Thus, Mr. Zinn's insight is consistent with the proposition that the third paragraph of §112 affects validity but not ex parte patentability determinations.

Less than six months after the effective date of the 1952 act, an eight-member panel of the Board of Appeals decided Ex Parte Ball, 99 U.S.P.Q. 146 (Bd. Pat. App. 1953). The eight- member panel in Ex Parte Ball included then Commissioner of Patents Watson, as well as Examiner-in-Chief Federico. Ball contended that:

> each of the appealed claims distinguishes from the prior art in the recitation of a means or an elemental structure for performing a specified function that is not contemplated by the cited references . . .

Id. at 148. Before enactment of §112's last paragraph, the Board had sustained rejections of Ball's claims because, comparing the claim language to the prior art, "any differences which exist are only functionally expressed" in the claims. Id.

After enactment, the Board withdrew that position on reconsideration, apparently due to the first clause of §112's last paragraph: "an element in a claim for a combination may be expressed as a means or step for performing a specified function without the recital of structure . ." The Board reversed rejections of those claims that recited a novel function:

> this function, as set forth, is distinctly unlike any function which is or could possibly be performed by the apparatus of [the prior art] .

Id. at 148-49.

However, the Board sustained rejections of the claims (e.g. claim 39) whose recited function was performed by the prior art. Id. at 150. The Board reasoned that despite the last clause ("and such claims shall be construed to cover . . .") of §112's last paragraph, the claims in a pending application would be controlled by §112's second paragraph, requiring the language itself of a claim to particularly point out the novel subject matter. Id. The dominance of the second paragraph over the third was simultaneously stated in dictum in In re Arbeit, 206 F.2d 947, 958, 99 USPQ 123, 131 (CCPA 1953). Similar statements have appeared in all eighty-five subsequent editions of the Manual of Patent Examining Procedure (MPEP), from 1955 to present, specifically referring to Ex Parte Ball. MPEP §706.03(c).

In 1957, the CCPA squarely held that the last clause of §112's last paragraph ("and such claim shall be construed to cover . . .") does not apply to PTO's patentability determinations. In re Lundberg, 244 F.2d 543, 548, 113 USPQ 530, 534 (CCPA 1957). The CCPA stated:

> notwithstanding the third [now sixth] paragraph of section 112, it is the language itself of the claims which must particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which the applicant regards > as his invention, without limitations imported from the specification, whether such language is couched in terms of means plus function or consists of a detailed recitation of the inventive matter. Limitations in the specification not included in the claim may not be relied upon to impart patentability to an otherwise unpatentable claim.

Id. That holding was central to the CCPA's judgment affirming PTO's rejection of claim 54:

> It is thus apparent that [prior art] either expressly discloses or reasonably would suggest to one skilled in the art, each element in the claimed combination, including th recited function of the detecting instrument. In view of our foregoing analysis of 35 U.S.C. 112, it is not seen that claim 54 patentably defines over the prior art. We accordingly sustain the board's rejection of this claim.

Id., 244 F.2d at 550, 113 USPQ at 536.

Following the CCPA's 1957 Lundberg decision, in 1965 Congress reenacted the "third" paragraph of §112 (1952) as the "sixth" paragraph of §112. Pub. L. 89-83, §9, 79 Stat. 261 (1965). In enacting Public Law 89-83, Congress saw no reason to disagree with the Lundberg and PTO interpretations: that the last clause does not apply in proceedings before PTO to determine whether claimed subject matter is patentable over the prior art under 35 U.S.C. §§102 or 103. See Lorillard v. Pons, 434 U.S. 575, 580 (1978) ("Congress is presumed to be aware of an administrative or judicial interpretation of a statute and to adopt that interpretation when it re-enacts a statute without change"); Atkins v. United States, 556 F.2d 1028, 1039 (Ct. Cl. 1977), cert. denied, 434 U.S. 1009 (1978) ("A cardinal principle of statutory interpretation is that, in the absence of a clearly expressed intent to the contrary, the revision or recodification of a statute indicates approval of court interpretations of the statute made prior to reenactment"). Upon reenactment, Congress did not in any way express disapproval of the PTO/CCPA means plus function interpretation as applied to ex parte examination.

In 1968, the CCPA in deciding In re Sweet, 393 F.2d 837, 841-42, 157 USPQ 495, 499 (CCPA 1968) noted, consistent with Lundberg and PTO's now well-established interpretation of the"third/sixth" paragraph of §112, that:

> However, a recitation of "means" for performing a function is interpreted broadly to cover all means capable of performing the stated function and is not limited to the particular structure which the application may disclose.

The CCPA affirmed as to those claims where the claimed function was obvious from the prior art, but reversed where the function was not disclosed or otherwise made obvious (i.e., claim 17). Id., 393 F.2d at 842-43, 157 USPQ at 500.

In 1975, Congress again reenacted the "sixth" paragraph of §112. Pub. L. 94-131, §7, 89 Stat. 690-91 (1975). Despite a second amendment of §112, Congress again declined to legislatively overrule the CCPA/PTO interpretation of the "third/sixth" paragraph of §112, as applied to patentability determinations of claims pending before PTO vis-a-vis the prior art. See Ralden Partnership v. United States, 891 F.2d 1575, 1579 (Fed. Cir. 1989) (an inference can be drawn that Congress acquiesced in agency interpretation of statute twice reenacted). Only Congress can "un-adopt" that interpretation.

The last clause of §112's last paragraph was consistently interpreted by the CCPA and PTO up to the time of the creation of the Federal Circuit. The PTO has now employed that interpretation without difficulty for thirty-eight years, a period in which PTO has issued over 2,436,000 patents.

There is no question that, both prior to and after creation of the Federal Circuit, courts of appeals applied the last clause of §112's last paragraph in infringement cases. It is also true that the last clause was not applied during PTO patentability determinations. But that is exactly what PTO believes Congress intended. In this respect, over 30 years of experience from 1952 to 1983 provides a certain "comfort level." Patent practitioners generally understand how the last paragraph of §112 was, and is, applied by PTO to determine whether means-plus-function limitations differ from the prior art.

Until creation of the Federal Circuit, the CCPA applied the Lundberg rationale to claims undergoing patent examination and courts of appeals applied the last clause of §112's last paragraph in infringement cases. Nothing in the Federal Courts Improvement Act of 1982, Pub. L. 97-164, Title I (1982), was intended to change the manner in which the Federal Circuit was to deal with interpretation of claims during examination or construction of claims in infringement cases.

B. Federal Circuit Treatment

The "sixth" paragraph of §112 was consistently interpreted and applied by the CCPA and PTO up to the time of the creation of the Federal Circuit. However, it has been inconsistently interpreted by the Federal Circuit. Insofar as PTO is aware, In re Mulder, 716 F.2d 1542, 1549, 219 USPQ 189, 196 (Fed. Cir. 1983), represents the first arguable departure from Lundberg. The Mulder court aid:

> With respect to claim 9, we note that it is drafted in "means plus function" format, so that it is "construed to cover the corresponding structure * * * described in the specification and equivalents thereof." 35 U.S.C. §112. As stated above, the board said that de Troye's arrangement constituted means to reduce input series resistance. Appellants have neither asserted nor shown that de Troye's structure is not the equivalent of the structure disclosed in their specification for reducing input series resistance.

The Mulder Board said what it said because it found de Troye to disclose the function. Hence, consistent with long-standing practice, it made no inquiry into the equivalency of the structures of the reference and Mulder. One might assume that appellants (Mulder) did not present a non-equivalence argument, because then well-established Lundberg/Sweet principles would have rendered such an argument futile.

In June of 1986, a journal article questioned whether PTO was properly applying the sixth paragraph of §112 in resolving § § 102/103 issues. Moy, "The Interpretation of Means Expression During Examination," 68 J. Pat. Off. Soc'y 246 (1986). Moy acknowledges the existence of, and discusses, published (precedential) and unpublished (unprecedential) ex parte CCPA/Federal Circuit decisions which support PTO's view. Id. at 256-59. Moy thinks that it is wrong for PTO to confine its examination of means-plus-function clauses to simply whether the identical function is performed. However, Moy does not address whether Congress' two reenactments of the means-plus-function provisions of §112 constitute legislative adoption of PTO's interpretation of the sixth paragraph based on Lundberg. Nor does Moy point to anything in the Federal Courts Improvement Act which suggests that the newly created Federal Circuit was no longer to apply Lundberg.

Non-precedential Federal Circuit opinions have applied the Lundberg rule. See, e.g., In re Boersma, No. 84-627 (Fed. Cir. May 4, 1984) (unpublished), summarized at 28 Pat. Tm & Copyrt. J. 83 (BNA May 24, 1984). Lundberg was addressed in concurring opinions of In re Queener, 796 F.2d 461, 230 USPQ 438 (Fed. Cir. 1986). Queener argued that PTO erroneously refused to apply the last clause of §112's last paragraph. The Court affirmed without reaching Queener's argument, explicitly indicating that it "need not, and does not" reach other matters, "including those pertaining to the 'means plus function' . . . ." Id., 796 F.2d at 464, 230 USPQ at 440. Senior Judge Miller, concurring, suggested that Queener's argument "is reasonable and should not be rejected out of hand or ignored by the majority and Judge Newman's concurring opinions." Id. Judge Newman separately concurred, citing Lundberg and noting:

> [I]n view of Senior Judge Miller's interpretation of precedent to hold that the last paragraph of section 112 is reasonably applied, in prosecution before the PTO, so that the claims need not distinguish from the prior art, I write separately to express my concern lest we reopen that closed book. It is now beyond debate that limitations from the specification will not, during examination before the PTO, be imputed to the claims in order to avoid prior art; such limitations must be specifically stated in the claims. . . This law has been consistently applied.

Id., 796 F.2d at 464, 230 USPQ at 440.

In 1989, a Federal Circuit panel decided In re Iwahashi, 888 F.2d 1370, 1375 n.1, 12 USPQ2d 1908, 1912 n.1 (Fed. Cir. 1989). In re Iwahashi involved a §101 rejection, not a rejection based on the prior art. Under In re Meyer, 688 F.2d 789, 796 n. 6, 215

USPQ 193, 199 n.6 (CCPA 1982), equivalence under §112's last paragraph is applicable to §101 rejections, but not to rejections based on the prior art. The Iwahashi panel did not explicitly recognize the Meyer distinction.

Iwahashi note 1 refers to a statement of law in In re Sweet, supra, to the effect that "means" for performing a function is interpreted broadly to cover all means capable of performing the stated function and is not limited to the particular structure which the application may disclose. Note 1, however, disagrees with the "truth" (correctness) of Sweet's statement of law. Note 1 says that the statement is partly true and partly untrue. The untrue part is said to be the first part, i.e., that means is interpreted to cover all means for performing the function. According to the note, the first part of the statement should have said that the means is interpreted as limited to the means disclosed in the specification and all equivalents thereof which perform the function.

"The immediately preceding two paragraphs" of the Sweet opinion, i.e., those appearing at 393 F.2d at 841, col. 2, 157 USPQ at 499, col. 1-2, are said to demonstrate that Sweet considered equivalence of structure under the last paragraph of §112. In re Iwahashi, supra. PTO does not believe that the "two paragraphs" demonstrate what the footnote says.

The Iwahashi footnote warns against removing the disputed statement of law from its context. The disputed statement of law in In re Sweet related to different claim language than did the two paragraphs. In volume 393 of the F.2d reporter, the two paragraphs related only to the function discussed on pages 840-41, whereas the disputed statement of law related only to the discussion of the whereby clause on page 842.

The two paragraphs dealt with whether the reference had a means to perform the claimed function "to simultaneously change the position of said cutting elements for cutting a different size diameter." In re Sweet. supra, 393 F.2d at 841, 157 USPQ at 499. The only precedent cited in the two paragraphs, In re Danly, 263 F.2d 844, 847, 120 USPQ 528, 531 (CCPA 1959), also dealt only with whether a reference exhibited "actual performance of the stated functions," as those functions were interpreted.

The disputed statement of law, however, dealt with whether the whereby clause (whereby said cutting elements will "cut at substantially the same distance from the center of rotation on said different size diameter") required that the cutting elements be in alignment with radii of the workpiece. In re Sweet, supra, 393 F.2d at 842, 157 USPQ at 499-500. Since the language itself of the claim did not require such alignment, the CCPA refused to read it into the claim. Id. at note 6 and accoapanying text.

In 1990, a Federal Circuit panel decided In re Bond, 910 F.2d 831, 15 USPQ2d 1566 (Fed. Cir. 1990). Without citing Lundberg, that panel made a statement directly contrary to Lundberg, regarding a pending claim:

> While a "means-plus-function" limitation may appear to include all means capable of achieving the desired function, the statute requires that it be "construed to cover the corresponding structure, material, or acts described in the specification and equivalents thereof." 35 U.S.C. §112 ¶ 6 (emphasis added);

In re Bond, 910 F.2d at 833, 15 USPQ2d at 1568. The panel remanded to the Board because the Board had not determined equivalence under §112 ¶ 6. The Board had not done so because it was (and is) the PTO's position that the last clause does not apply to pending applications.

C. Mandatory Authority

The following mandatory authority forecloses PTO interpretation of pending means claims as limited to structure, material, or acts described in the specification and equivalents thereof under 35 U.S.C. §112.

Supreme Court cases hold that an agency's consistent longstanding interpretation of a statute is entitled to deference. Chevron U.S.A. Inc. v. Natural Resources Defense Council, 467 U.S. 837, 843-45, reh'g denied, 468 U.S. 1227 (1984); United States v. Clark, 454 U.S. 555, 565 (1982); FEC v. Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, 454 U.S. 27, 32 (1981). In FEC, the Court of Appeals had struck down an agency interpretation of a statute. The Supreme Court reversed because the agency's interpretation was within its authority rather than frustrative of the policy Congress sought to implement or "inconsistent with the statutory mandate." FEC, supra..

As set forth above, the PTO has consistently and historically interpreted the last clause ("and shall be construed to cover . . .") as inapplicable to pending applications. In re Queener, 796 F.2d 461, 464, 230 USPQ 438, 440 (Fed. Cir. 1986) (Newman, J., concurring); Moy, "The Interpretation Of Means Expressions During Prosecution," 68 J. Pat. Tm. Off. Soc'y. 246, 251 (1986). Thus, PTO's interpretation of the last clause Of §112's last paragraph is not easily overcome. In fact, application of the last clause to applications pending before the PTO is foreclosed by (1) the clause itself, (2) binding precedent, and (3) Congressional re-enactment

1. The Clause Itself

As discussed below, the Supreme Court used the terms "construed" or "cover" around 1952 when referring to post-issuance matters in court (e.g., validity or infringement), and not to interpretation of claims by the PTO in a patentability determination. Therefore, it is reasonable to conclude that a 1952 statute that used either of those terms referred only to matters in court, not in the PTO. Since the last clause of §112's final paragraph used (a) "construed" and (b) "covered" in the same phrase "construed to cover" it must have referred only to infringement cases in court. Use of the term (c) "equivalents" further indicates that a court, not a PTO, determination is called for. The combined import of all three terms is clear.

(a) "construed"

The Supreme Court has used "construed" only to refer to post-issuance court matters and not to PTO patentability determinations. See, e.g., Graver Tank & Mfg. Co. v. Linde Air Prods. Co.. 336 U.S. 271, 276-77 (1948), aff'd on reh'g, 339 U.S. 605 (1949), reh'g denied, 340 U.S. 845 (1950). The Supreme Court's usage just prior to the 1952 enactment is especially relevant to the meaning attributed to "construed" in the 1952 Act. The last paragraph of §112 was enacted in response to then-recent Supreme Court precedent. Federico, supra; Zinn, supra.

In Graver Tank, the Supreme Court reversed the Court of Appeals for erroneously importing limitations from the specification into the claims. Graver Tank, 336 U.S. at 276-77. The relevant passage dealt with a district court's holding invalid certain claims asserted in an infringement action:

> The Court of Appeals [erroneously] considered that because there was nothing in the record to show that the applicants for the patent intended by these claims to assert a monopoly broader than nine metallic silicates named in the specifications, the [district] court should have construed the claims as thus narrowed and limited by the specifications.

Id. Because of the similar topic of that passage, and because Graver Tank was the seminal case on equivalents, Congress' usage of "construed" four years later in the last clause of §112's last paragraph was predictably consistent with that passage. Claims were "construed" by courts.

As another example, in Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Suermarket Equip. Corp., 340 U.S. 147, 149 (1950), reh'g . denied, 340 U.S. 918 (1951), the Supreme Court applied §112's precursor in an infringement case. The Court found clearly erroneous district court's "construction" of an asserted claim because the limitation relied on was:

> not mentioned in the claims, except, perhaps, by a construction too strained to be consistent with the clarity required of claims which define the boundaries of a patent monopoly.

Id. Claims were "construed" by courts.

The Federal Circuit's usage of "construe" is not especially probative of legislative intent because it is well after the 1952 enactment. However, when addressing why PTO's standards for patentability should be stricter than a district court's standards for validity, the Federal Circuit distinguishes between claims being "construed" by district courts, and "interpreted" or the like by the PTO. See, e.g., In re Yamamoto, 740 F.2d 1569, 1571, 222 USPQ 934, 936 (Fed. Cir. 1984); see also In re Etter, 756 F.2d 852, 858-59, 225 USPQ 1, 5-6 (Fed. Cir. 1985) (in banc) (rule of claim "construction" has no role in PTO reexamination), cert. denied, 474 U.S. 828 (1985). Similarly, in Burlington Indus. v. Quigg, 822 F.2d 1581, 1583, 3 USPQ2d 1436, 1438 (Fed. Cir. 1987), the court stated:

> Issues of judicial claim construction such as arise after patent issuance, for example during infringe> ment litigation, have no place in prosecution of pending claims before the PTO . . .

Thus, the last clause of §112's last paragraph has no place in prosecution of pending claims before the PTO under §102 or §103.

(b) "cover"

Federico's above-quoted statement reveals that the word "cover" in §112 is used to connote an infringement context. No known Supreme Court precedent uses the word "cover" in an ex parte patentability case.

(c) "equivalents"

Section 112's reference to "equivalents" indicates an infringement, not prosecution, setting. Compare Graver Tank & Mfg. Co. supra, 339 U.S. at 610 ("equivalence. . . is to be decided by the trial court."). "Equivalents" under §112 speaks solely to infringement; is judicially, not administratively, determined; and involves redefining issued claims:

> exists solely for the equitable purpose of "preventing an infringer from stealing the benefit of an invention" . . . equivalency is judicially determined by reviewing the content of the patent, the prior art, and the accused device, and essentially redefining the scope of the claims.

Texas Instruments. Inc. v. United States Int'l Trade Comm'n, 805 F.2d 1558, 1572, 231 USPQ 833, 842 (Fed. Cir. 1986), reh'g denied, 846 F.2d 1369, 6 USPQ2d 1886 (Fed. Cir.), reh'g denied, 7 USPQ2d 1414 (Fed. Cir. 1988) (in banc). The inclusion of "equivalents" in §112's last paragraph appears to address concerns of Halliburton Co. v. Walker that dealt only with potential infringers. Halliburton, supra, 329 U.S. at 12-13.

2. Binding Precedent

As a CCPA case, Lundberg is binding precedent. South Corp. v. United States, 690 F.2d 1368, 215 USPQ 657 (Fed. Cir. 1982) (in banc).

The Lundberg case cannot be distinguished on the grounds that no appealed claims were held patentable. The CCPA did not decide whether the disclosed means would have been obvious if incorporated into a claim. Lundberg, supra, 244 F.2d at 551, 230 USPQ at 537.

The Lundberg case cannot be distinguished as one in which the applicant urged limitation of a claim to the disclosed means only exclusive of equivalents. The CCPA held that a function clause cannot be used to incorporate any limitations whatsoever into an applicant's claims, id., and that limitations not included in the language itself of the claims cannot impart patentability, id., 244 F.2d at 548, 113 USPQ at 534. It is irrelevant to those holdings whether attempted limitations would come from the disclosed means or from its equivalents. The CCPA noted that §112 required means-plus-function claims to be "construed to cover the corresponding structure, * * * described in the specification and equivalents thereof." Id., 244 F.2d at 546, 113 USPQ at 533 (emphasis added).

In his brief, Lundberg repeatedly argued for limitation to means "described in the specification, and equivalents thereof." Lundberg's Brief For Appellants, pages 9, 14, 35, and 38 (emphasis added). Lundberg implicitly argued that the prior art was not the same as, or equivalent to, the means described in his specification.

For example, Lundberg quoted his specification's detailed description of claim 54's detecting means. Lundberg's Brief at 33-34. Lundberg argued that the Board had erred in saying that the prior art means was the same. Lundberg's Brief at 34. Lundberg argued further that the prior art means was not equivalent to Lundberg's disclosed means in that he argued the prior art distinguished itself from the type of detector means (a detector of one or more components of magnetic field) disclosed in Lundberg's specification. Lundberg's Brief at 35. Lundberg cited record page 210 showing that the prior art distinguished itself from the type of detector means disclosed in Lundberg's specification. Lundberg's Brief at 35. Lundberg concluded that section of argument citing the 1952 Patent Act as requiring limitations "described in the specification and equivalents therefor [sic, thereof] ." Lundberg's Brief at 35.

As another example, Lundberg argued that claim 54's airplane means for transporting referred to aircraft capable of the type of movement "repeatedly set forth in the present application" which he alleged was not even along the lines of the prior art's contemplation. Lundberg' Brief at 24-26.

3. Congress' Reenactments

Acts of Congress are mandatory authority. As discussed above, Congress' reenactments implicitly adopted and re-adopted the PTO/CCPA interpretation.

D. Effect of Federal Circuit Panel Decisions

Without addressing In re Lundberg, Federal Circuit panels have made statements contrary to the above statement of mandatory authority, viz., In re Bond, 910 F.2d 831, 833, 835, 15 USPQ2d 1566, 1568, 1569 (Fed. Cir. 1990), and arguably In re Iwahashi, 888 F.2d 1370, 1375 n.1, 12 USPQ2d 1908, 1912 n.1 (Fed. Cir. 1989) (not a prior art case) and In re Mulder, 716 F.2d 1542, 1549, 219 USPQ 189, 196 (Fed. Cir. 1983) (no definitive treatment).

Those panel decisions do not overcome the mandatory authority set forth supra. For example, they do not overcome In re Lundberg, which is binding precedent in the Federal Circuit. See Capitol Elec. Inc. v. United States, 729 F.2d 743, 746 (Fed. Cir. 1984); South Corp. v. United States, 690 F.2d 1368, 215 USPQ 657 (Fed. Cir. 1982) (in banc). Although Note 1 in In re Iwahashi disagreed with the "truth" of Sweet's statement of law, the In re Iwahashi panel had no authority to overrule any CCPA case. And, of course, no court can overcome the mandatory authority, discussed above, of §112's last clause itself and Congress' reenactments.

E. Other Considerations

Interpreting "means" in pending claims as including any capable means rather than the disclosed means and equivalents thereof, comports more with (1) the reverse doctrine of equivalents, (2) the statutory presumption of validity, and (3) policy considerations.

1. Reverse Doctrine of Equivalents

Section 112 ¶ 6 operates like the reverse doctrine of equivalents. Intel Corp. v. United States Int'l Trade Comm'n, Appeal No. 89-1459, 20 USPQ2d 1161, 1179 (Fed. Cir. September 17, 1991). One treatise states that:

> Lundberg represents the better interpretation of Section 112 ¶ 6. This section is best understood as an expression of the reverse doctrine of equivalents. The reverse doctrine addresses how to treat later technical developments covered in words but not in substance by the claims in suit.

2 Patent Law Perspectives, ¶ 2.9[5] , p. 2-1172.1 through p. 2-1172.7 (1991). Thus, consideration of equivalents at the time of prosecution is an unnecessary expenditure of resources and ineffectual because equivalence, and the reverse doctrine in particular, speaks to future advances. See Westinghouse v. Boyden Power Brake Co., 170 U.S. 537, 568 (1898); Graver Tank Mfg. v. Linde, supra, 339 U.S. at 608. Halliburton Co. v. Walker, 329 U.S. 1, 12, 13 (1946), was addressed by §112's last paragraph and points out that a device may not be known as of the patent issue date as an equivalent of a claimed means.

Neither PTO nor an applicant can predict what means will be shown after issuance of a patent to be equivalent to the claimed means:

> It is not required that those skilled in the art knew, at the time the patent application was filed of the asserted equivalent means of performing the claimed functions; that equivalence is determined as of the time infringement takes place.

Texas Instruments, Inc. v. United States I.T.C., 805 F.2d 1558, 1563, 231 USPQ 833, (Fed. Cir. 1986), reh'g denied, 846 F.2d 1369, 6 USPQ2d 1886 (Fed. Cir.) (note concurring opinion by Judge Davis), reh'g denied, 7 USPQ2d 1414 (Fed. Cir. 1988) (in banc). See also D.M.I., Inc. v. Deere and Co., 755 F.2d 1570, 1574, 225 USPQ 236, 238 (Fed. Cir. 1985) ("there is and can be no requirement that applicants describe or predict every possible means of accomplishing that function"); S.R.I. Int'l v. Matsushita Elec. Corp., 775 F.2d 1107, 1121, 227 USPQ 577, 586 (Fed. Cir. 1985) (in banc) (plurality) ("The law does not require the impossible. Hence, it does not require that an applicant describe in his specification every conceivable and possible future embodiment of his invention").

If pending means claims were interpreted as limited to disclosed means and equivalents thereof, patent applicants would have to prosecute based on what they predict to be or not to be equivalent in the future. That is impractical, if not nonsensical, because equivalence is determined "as of the time infringement takes place," Texas Instruments, supra. Statements during prosecution, however, may estop patentees from asserting a full range of equivalents against infringers in the future. See 2 Patent Law Perspectives, supra at 2-1172.5 (1991). Lacking such statements, courts would re-determine equivalence during infringement suits, duplicating and superseding PTO's determinations.

2. Presumption Of Validity

In courts, issued claims are presumed valid. 35 U.S.C. §282. Thus, courts determining validity in infringement cases give a narrower meaning to issued claims (to preserve their validity) than the "broadest reasonable interpretation" PTO gives to pending claims. In re Etter, 756 F.2d 852, 858-59, 225 USPQ 1, 5-6 (Fed. Cir. 1985) (in banc). The court stated:

> In litigation, where a patentee cannot amend his claims, or add new claims, the presumption [of validity], and the rule of claim construction (claims shall be construed to save them if possible), have important roles to play. In reexamination, where claims can be amended and new claims added, and where no litigating adversary is present, those roles and their rationale simply vanish.

Id. See also In re Zletz, 893 F.2d 319, 321, 13 USPQ2d 1320, 1322 (Fed. Cir. 1989) (citing In re Prater, 415 F.2d 1393, 1404-05, 162 USPQ 541, 550-51 (CCPA 1969) for the proposition that "before the application is granted, there is no reason to read into the claim the limitations of the specification"). Because § 282's presumption of validity and the narrowing rule of claim construction do not apply to pending claims, In re Etter, supra, the reasons for construing issued means claims as limited to disclosed means and equivalents thereof under §112 "simply vanish" in PTO examination.

A validity appeal from a district court is "quite another thing" (compared to an ex parte PTO appeal) because, inter alia, various additional segments (e.g. §282) of the patent statute are applicable to an issued patent. Compare Polaroid Corp. v. Eastman Kodak Co., 789 F.2d 1556, 1559 n.8, 229 USPQ 561, 563 n.8 (Fed. Cir.), cert. denied, 479 U.S. 850 (1986).

3. Policy Considerations

Given PTO's long-standing interpretation of the sixth paragraph, judicially sanctioned in Lundberg, and twice implicitly adopted by Congress through reenactments of §112, any change in the practice is properly addressed by Congress — not the courts or PTO. A change in practice involves policy issues which would affect many involved in the patent system — PTO, patentees, and accused infringers. These and other policy issues are appropriately debated and resolved by Congress:

a. PTO Workload

PTO's workload will increase; without the benefit of live testimony and testing facilities, PTO will have to resolve structural equivalency.

b. Practical Application

Patent applicants may have concerns about pre-committing views on non-equivalency prior to the time a patent is asserted.

Under § 112, a court may determine the breadth of equivalents to be afforded means plus function clauses in issued patents with reference to, inter alia, expert testimony and the prosecution history. Intel Corp. v. United States Int'l Trade Comm'n, Appeal No. 89-1459, 20 USPQ2d 1161, 1179-80 (Fed. Cir. September 17, 1991). The PTO has no facility for calling its own expert to balance expert testimony that arguably could be made of record under 37 C.F.R. §1.132. Before prosecution is complete, there is no coherent prosecution history; it is a moving target.

Because equivalency is determined with reference to testimony of experts and others versed in the technology, it requires a determination of credibility. Graver Tank, supra. 339 U.S. at 609. The Patent and Trademark Office is illequipped to assess credibility in ex parte patentability determinations.

Thus, it would be impractical for the PTO to attempt to apply the last clause of §112's final paragraph when comparing prior art to claims in ex parte examination.

c. Burden Shifting

If PTO accepted an applicant's non-equivalency argument, the burden of proof may shift in infringement cases; the accused infringer would have to prove non-equivalency, whereas today the patent owner must prove equivalency.

d. Claim Clarity

If pending means claims were interpreted as limited to the disclosed means and equivalents thereof without explicit claim language, it would be much more difficult to read and understand such claims. For example, identically worded claims in different applications could have different meanings, even to the point of mutual allowability and non-interference.

II. If §112 Applies. How?

PTO must apply the "broadest reasonable interpretation" to pending claims.

> In In re Yamamoto, 740 F.2d 1569, 222 USPQ 934 (Fed. Cir. 1984), this court said that claims subject to reexamination will "be given their broadest reasonable interpretation consistent with the specification, and limitations appearing in the specification are not to be read into the claims." 740 F.2d at 1571, 222 USPQ at 936. That standard is applied in considering rejections entered in the course of prosecution of original applications for patent. See In re Prater, 415 F.2d 1393, 1404-05, 162 USPQ 541, 550-51 (CCpA 1969).

In re Etter, 756 F.2d 852, 858, 225 USPQ 1, 5 (Fed. Cir. 1985) (in banc), cert. denied, 474 U.S. 828 (1985) (interpreting "means" clause).

That requirement would be applicable to PTO even if §112's last clause were also applicable. The only case directly requiring PTO to determine equivalents under ¶ 6 required PTO at the same time to apply the "broadest reasonable interpretation" to the claim. In re Bond, 910 F.2d at 833, 15 USPQ2d at 1567. In PTO's view, the broadest reasonable interpretation of "means" for performing a function renders all capable means equivalent.

A court in a validity/infringement case must apply a narrow construction dictated by §282's presumption of validity, as discussed supra. In a validity/infringement case, "section 112 ¶ 6 operates to cut back on the types of means which could literally satisfy the claim language." Johnston v. Ivac Corp., 885 F.2d 1574, 1580, 12 USPQ2d 1382, 1386 (Fed. Cir. 1989) (emphasis in original). In sch a case, claims are not given the broadest reasonable construction. Compare In re Etter, supra, 225 USPQ at 8, 756 F.2d at 862 (Nies, J., concurring) ("claims in litigation are to be 'so construed, if possible as to sustain their validity.' [citation omitted]. Claims in reexamination, on the other hand, 'will be given their broadest reasonable interpretation.' "). Since PTO must apply the broadest reasonable interpretation, the Johnston v. Ivac Corp. considerations do not dictate the same result in the PTO. Compare In re Zletz, supra, 893 F.2d at 321, 13 USPQ2d at 1322 (Board erred by applying the mode of claim construction used by courts in litigation).

Even if §112's last clause applied to PTO's ex parte patentability determinations vis-a-vis the prior art, and even if all capable means were not equivalent, the clause would not limit pending means claims to disclosed and equivalent means. As set forth supra, §112 ¶ 6 operates like the reverse doctrine of equivalents and speaks only to post-issuance advances. Thus, pre-issuance, a claim encompasses disclosed and equivalent means as well as any other means for performing the function.

HARRY F. MANBECK, Jr.
Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks

Patent and Trademark Office
37 CFR Parts 1 and 10
[Docket No. 910764-1306]
RIN: 0651-AA27

Duty of Disclosure

Agency: Patent and Trademark Office, Commerce
Action: Notice of final rulemaking.
Summary: The Patent and Trademark Office (Office) is amending the rules of practice in patent cases to (1) clarify the duty of disclosure for information required to be submitted to the Office; (2) provide flexible time limits for submitting information disclosure statements including the requirement for a fee in certain cases; (3) eliminate consideration of duty of disclosure issues by the Office except in disciplinary and interference proceedings, and under other limited circumstances; and (4) eliminate the striking of patent applications which are improperly executed. The Office further is amending the Patent and Trademark Office Code of Professional Responsibility to define as misconduct a failure to comply with the rules on duty of disclosure. The rules as adopted strike a balance between the need of the Office to obtain and consider all known relevant information pertaining to patentability before a patent is granted and the desire to avoid or minimize unnecessary complications in the enforcement of patents.
Effective Date: March 16, 1992. These rules will be applicable to all applications and reexamination proceedings pending or filed after the effective date.
For Further Information Contact: By telephone Charles E. Van Horn (703-305-9054) or J. Michael Thesz (703-305-9384) or by mail addressed to Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks, Washington, D.C. 20231, and marked to the attention of Charles E. Van Horn (Crystal Park 2 - Room 919).
Supplementary Information: A notice of proposed rulemaking on duty of disclosure and practitioner misconduct published in the Federal Register at 54 FR 11334 (March 17, 1989), and in the Patent and Trademark Office Official Gazette at 1101 Off. Gaz. Pat. Off. 12 (April 4, 1989), was withdrawn. On August 6, 1991, the Office published in the Federal Register a notice of proposed rulemaking relating to duty of disclosure. 56 FR 37321 The notice was also published in the Official Gazette. 1129 Off. Gaz. Pat. Off. 52 (August 27, 1991). Sixty written comments were received in response to the notice of proposed rulemaking. A public hearing was held on October 8, 1991. Eleven individuals offered oral comments at the hearing. The sixty written comments and a copy of the transcript of the hearing are available for public inspection in the Office of the Assistant Commissioner for Patents, Room 919, Crystal Park II, 2121 Crystal Drive, Arlington, VA.

Familiarity with the notice of proposed rulemaking is assumed. Changes in the text of the rules published for comment in the notice of proposed rulemaking are discussed. Comments received in writing and at the public hearing in response to the notice of proposed rulemaking are discussed.

The rules as adopted shall take effect as to all applications and reexamination proceedings either pending or filed on or after the effective date of these rules. Thus, any information disclosure statement that is filed on or after that date must comply with the provisions of §§1.97 and 1.98 to be entitled to consideration.

Changes in Text: The final rules contain several changes to the text of the rules as proposed for comment. Those changes are discussed below.

Section 1.17(i)(1) has been changed from the proposed text to reflect the recent increase in the amount of the fee for filing a petition from $120.00 to $130.00.

Section 1.56(a) has been clarified to indicate that the duty of an individual to disclose information is based on the knowledge of that individual that the information is material to patentability. A sentence has been added to §1.56(a) to express the principle that the Office does not condone the granting of a patent on an application in connection with which fraud on the Office was practiced or attempted or the duty of disclosure was violated through bad faith or intentional misconduct. In addition, §1.56(a) as proposed has been changed to indicate that if all information material to patentability of any claim issued in a patent is cited by the Office or submitted to the Office in the manner prescribed by §§1.97(b)-(d) and 1.98, the Office will consider as satisfied the duty to disclose to the Office all information known to be material to patentability, as contrasted to the broader duty of candor and good faith. This rule does not attempt to define the spectrum of conduct that would lack the candor and good faith in dealing with the Office which is expected of individuals who are associated with the filing or prosecution of a patent application.

In §1.56(b), the phrase "or being made of record" has been inserted to make it clear that information is not material to patentability within the meaning of §1.56 if it is cumulative to either information already of record in the application or contemporaneously being made of record by applicant. For example, there would be no benefit to the Office for applicant to submit to the Office 10 different documents having the same teaching simply because the information was not cumulative to the information already of record.

The term "creates" has been replaced by the term "establishes" in §1.56(b)(1). In addition, the definition of a prima facie case of unpatentability, as set out in the preamble of the notice of proposed rulemaking, has been incorporated into the rule itself. A prima facie case of unpatentability of a claim is established when the information compels a conclusion that the claim is unpatentable

(1) under the preponderance of evidence, burden-of-proof standard,
(2) giving each term in the claim its broadest reasonable construction consistent with the specification, and
(3) before any consideration is given to evidence which may be submitted in an attempt to establish a con trary conclusion of patentability.

This prima facie standard conforms to the standard used by an examiner to determine whether a claim is prima facie unpatentable.

Section 1.56(b)(2) has been modified from the text of the proposed rule. The focus of this paragraph has been changed so that it now relates to information which either refutes, or is inconsistent with, a position that applicant takes in either

(1) opposing an argument of unpatentability relied on by the Office, or
(2) asserting an argument of patentability.

The change from the proposed rule makes clear that information is material when it either refutes, or is inconsistent with, a position taken by applicant before the Office.

Section 1.97(e) has been changed from the proposed text to make it clear that a certification could contain either of two statements. One statement is that each item of information in an information disclosure statement was cited in a search report from a patent office outside the U.S. not more than three months prior to the filing date of the statement. Under this certification, it would not matter whether any individual with a duty actually knew about any of the information cited before receiving the search report. In the alternative, the certification could state that no item of information contained in the information disclosure statement was cited in a communication from a foreign patent office in a counterpart foreign application or, to the knowledge of the person signing the certification after making reasonable inquiry, was known to any individual having a duty to disclose more than three months prior to the filing of the statement.

The changes to the text of §1.97(e) as proposed place the appropriate priority on getting relevant information to the Office promptly, with minimum burden to applicant. The text of the proposal has also been changed by adding the phrase "after making reasonable inquiry" to make it clear that the individual making the certification has a duty to make reasonable inquiry regarding the facts that are being certified. For example, if an inventor gave a publication to the practitioner prosecuting an application with the intent that it be cited to the Office, the practitioner should inquire as to when that inventor became aware of the publication before submitting a certification under §1.97(e)(ii) to the Office.

A new paragraph (h) has been added to the text of proposed §1.97. The purpose of new paragraph (h) is to ensure that no one could construe the mere filing of an information disclosure statement as an admission that the information cited in the statement is, or is considered to be, material to patentability as defined in §1.56(b). It is in the best interest of the Office and the public to permit and encourage individuals to cite information to the Office without fear of making an admission against interest.

In §1.98(a)(2)(iii), the wording has been changed to make it clear that the requirement to submit a copy of each item of information listed in an information disclosure statement does not apply to the citation of a U.S. patent application.

The requirement in proposed §1.98(a)(3) for a concise explanation of the relevance of each item of information has been substantially changed by limiting the requirement in two significant ways. First, as adopted, the requirement is limited to information that is not in the English language. Second, the explanation required is limited to the relevance as understood by the individual designated in §1.56(c) most knowledgeable about the content of the information at the time the information is submitted to the Office. Where the information listed is not in the English language, but was cited in a search report by a foreign patent office, the requirement for a concise explanation of relevance is satisfied by submitting an English language version of the search report.

In §1.98(d), the proposed text has been changed by adding the phrase "cited by or" to make it clear that legible copies of information listed in an information disclosure statement need not be submitted in a continuing application provided the information was either cited by or submitted to the Office in a prior application. A distinction between information cited by the Office or supplied by applicant to the Office serves no useful purpose in this situation.

The text of proposed §1.555 has been modified to limit the definition of information material to patentability in a reexamination proceeding to the types of information that an examiner could use in a reexamination proceeding to determine whether a claim was patentable, and to adopt other changes that parallel changes made in §1.56. Proposed §1.555(a) has been divided into two paragraphs. Paragraph (a), as adopted, substantially parallels the text of §1.56(a) as adopted. It indicates that the duty to disclose information to the Office in a reexamination proceeding is a part of the duty of candor and good faith that is owed to the Office by individuals transacting business with the Office. It further states one way that an individual may discharge the duty to disclose information material to patentability in a reexamination proceeding - i.e., by filing an information disclosure statement with the items listed in §1.98(a) as applied to individuals associated with the patent owner in a reexamination proceeding. Finally, the text of the rule has been changed to add a sentence that expresses the principle that a patent should not be granted on an application in connection with which fraud was practiced or attempted on the Office or there was any violation of the duty of disclosure through bad faith or intentional misconduct.

New paragraph (b) of §1.555 has been adopted to define information material to patentability in a reexamination proceeding. Much like the definition in §1.56(b), information is not material when it is cumulative to information of record or being made of record in the reexamination proceeding. Information is considered material when it satisfies either or both of the definitions in §1.555(b). Under §1.555(b)(1), information is material when it is a patent or printed publication that establishes, by itself or in combination with other patents or printed publications, a prima facie case of unpatentability of a claim. This definition is limited to patents or printed publications because a reexamination proceeding must be based on patents or printed publications. 35 U.S.C. 302.

The definition of a prima facie case of unpatentability of a claim pending in a reexamination proceeding has been provided in the rule. A prima facie case of unpatentability is established when the information compels a conclusion that a claim is unpatentable under the same principles that are applicable during ex parte examination of a patent application; namely

(1) under the preponderance of evidence, burden-of-proof standard,
(2) giving each term in the claim its broadest reasonable construction consistent with the specification, and
(3) before any consideration is given to evidence which may be submitted in an attempt to establish a con trary conclusion of patentability.

Finally, the definition of information material to patentability in §1.555(b)(2) has been added to parallel the provision in §1.56(b)(2).

After reviewing the Office policy on whether to consider duty of disclosure and other inequitable conduct issues in interference proceedings under 35 U.S.C. 135(a), including comments from the public directed to the statement in the notice of proposed rulemaking that the Office will not consider, evaluate, or decide fraud or other inequitable conduct issues during an interference proceeding, a new Office policy has been adopted. Effective October 24, 1991, fraud and inequitable conduct issues will be considered when properly raised inter partes in patent interference cases. 1132 Off. Gaz. Pat. Off. 33 (November 19, 1991). In addition, the Chairman of the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences has issued a notice that provides guidance on how an issue of fraud or other inequitable conduct can be raised in an interference proceeding. 1133 Off. Gaz. Pat. Off. 21 (December 10, 1991).

Response to and Analysis of Comments: Sixty (60 written comments were received in response to the notice of proposed rulemaking. These comments, along with those made at the public hearing, have been analyzed. Some suggestions made in the comments have been adopted and others have been rejected. Responses to the comments follow.

Comment: 1. Nine comments indicated that the Office should not amend §1.56 since it is presently in conformance to the materiality standard being applied by the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. One comment questioned what practical value of the proposed rule would justify the burden of the change.

Reply: The amendment to §1.56 was proposed to address criticism concerning a perceived lack of certainty in the materiality standard. The rule as promulgated will provide greater clarity and hopefully minimize the burden of litigation on the question of inequitable conduct before the Office, while providing the Office with the information necessary for effective and efficient examination of patent applications.

Comment 2. One comment stated that the present rules should be maintained and strengthened since the public interest is hurt more by an unjustly issued patent than by an unjustly denied patent. Another comment disagreed and argued that an unjustly denied patent can do great harm to society.

Reply: The Office strives to issue valid patents. The Office has both an obligation not to unjustly issue patents and an obligation not to unjustly deny patents. Innovation and technological advancement are best served when an inventor is issued a patent with the scope of protection that is deserved. The rules as adopted serve to remind individuals associated with the preparation and prosecution of patent applications of their duty of candor and good faith in their dealings with the Office, and will aid the Office in receiving, in a timely manner, the information it needs to carry out effective and efficient examination of patent applications.

Comment 3. Two comments stated that the rule should not permit applicants to draft claims and a specification to avoid a prima facie case of obviousness over a reference and then to be able to withhold the reference from the examiner.

Reply: The comments reflect a correct reading of the rule in that information is not material unless it comes within the definition of §1.56(b)(1) or (2). If information is not material, there is no duty to disclose the information to the Office. The Office believes that most applicants will wish to submit the information, however, even though they may not be required to do so, to strengthen the patent and avoid the risks of an incorrect judgment on their part on materiality or that it may be held that there was an intent to deceive the Office.

Comment 4. One comment stated that promulgation of the proposed rule would result in a significant decrease in the quantity of art cited to the Office because there will be no duty to cite art relevant to a pending claim.

Reply: The Office does not anticipate any significant change in the quantity of information cited to the Office after promulgation of amended §1.56. Presumably, applicants will continue to submit information for consideration by the Office in applications rather than making and relying on their own determinations of materiality. An incentive remains to submit the information to the Office because it will result in a strengthened patent and will avoid later questions of materiality and intent to deceive. In addition, the new rules will actually facilitate the filing of information since the burden of submitting information to the Office has been reduced by eliminating, in most cases, the requirement for a concise statement of the relevance of each item of information listed in an information disclosure statement.

Comment 5. Several comments stated that an objective "but for" standard would be preferable to the proposed rule. The objective "but for" standard would presumably consider information as a court does in an infringement proceeding with a clear and convincing, burden-of-proof standard, giving the terms in each claim a narrow construction where necessary to uphold validity.

Reply: The Office believes that amended §1.56 will provide a reasonable balance between the needs of applicants and of the Office. The suggested "but for" standard would not cause the Office to obtain the information it needs to evaluate patentability so that its decisions may be presumed correct by the courts. If the Office does not have needed information, meaningful examination of patent applications will take place for the first time in an infringement case before a district court. Courts will become increasingly less confident of the Office's product if they get the impression that practitioners and inventors can routinely withhold information from the Office, or that practitioners and inventors can make up their own minds about what is patentable. The Office should decide, in the first instance, what is patentable and any decision should be made with the best information available, including that known by the applicant. The Office notes that the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association twice, once in 1990 and again in 1991, refused to adopt a resolution favoring adoption of the "but for" standard.

Comment 6. One comment argued that proposed §1.56 does not relate to "the conduct of proceedings in the Patent and Trademark Office" (35 U.S.C. 6(a)) since the Office does not intend to reject applications as indicated by the cancellation of paragraphs (c) through (i) of current §1.56.

Reply: The amendment to §1.56 comes within the authority of the Commissioner for establishing regulations. Norton v. Curtiss, 433 F.2d 779, 167 USPQ 532 (CCPA 1970). The Office has reserved its inherent authority to reject an application under appropriate circumstances where fraud or other inequitable conduct has occurred. Also, the Office will consider fraud and inequitable conduct when properly raised in interference proceedings under 35 U.S.C. 135(a). The Office will also consider fraud and inequitable conduct in connection with attorney conduct under §10.23(c).

Comment 7. One comment stated that §1.56 should require only anticipatory art to be submitted during examination of an application, with a procedure such as reexamination being used after discovery in any litigation on the patent has revealed all available art.

Reply: An application is examined under all appropriate sections of Title 35, United States Code, and a presumption of validity attaches to a patent with regard to all aspects of patentability, including anticipation. 35 U.S.C. 282. Therefore, §1.56 should address more than just the submission of anticipatory information, including information relevant to patentability under 35 U.S.C. 103 and 35 U.S.C. 112.

Comment 8. One comment suggested that proposed §1.56 has some dangerous implications since courts are going to find violations of the duty of disclosure if §§1.97 and 1.98 are not complied with completely.

Reply: Section 1.56 provides that the duty of disclosure can be met by submitting information to the Office in the manner prescribed by §§1.97 and 1.98. Sections 1.97 and 1.98 are being amended so that information will be submitted to the Office in the manner and at the time which will facilitate consideration by the examiner. Applicants are provided certainty as to when information will be considered, and applicants will be informed when information is not considered. The Office does not believe that courts should, or will, find violations of the duty of disclosure because of unintentional non-compliance with §§1.97 and 1.98. If the non-compliance is intentional, however, the applicant will have assumed the risk that the failure to submit the information in a manner that will result in its being considered by the examiner may be held to be a violation.

Comment 9. Two comments stated that the Office should not delete the offense of attempted fraud from the §1.56. The comments stated that elimination of the reference to "gross negligence" in current §1.56 would be sufficient to protect the practitioner who delays submission of information with no intent to deceive the Office. One of the comments stated that the disciplinary rules alone are not sufficient to deter attempted fraud or inequitable conduct.

Reply: The language of §§1.56(a) and 1.555(a) has been modified to retain the provisions of prior §1.56(d) to indicate that the Office does not condone fraud, attempted fraud, or violation of the duty of disclosure through bad faith or intentional misconduct.

Comment 10. One comment stated that the appropriate standards for the duty of candor are analogous to fiduciary law which requires the fiduciary to disclose not only known facts, but also facts which it should have known, i.e., a negligence standard. The comment argued that it was undesirable to measure duty of candor or fraud by a reduced measure of "intent" instead of an objective negligence standard since the Office is not bound by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit decision in Kingsdown Medical Consultants, Ltd. v. Hollister, Inc., 863 F.2d 867, 9 USPQ2d 1384 (Fed. Cir. 1988) (en banc), cert. denied, 490 U.S. 1067 (1989), and since the proposed standard is no more objective than alternative standards but is simply narrower and more certain. Another comment suggested that the Office should indicate that there is no intention to change the Kingsdown ruling.

Reply: Section 1.56 has been amended to present a clearer and more objective definition of what information the Office considers material to patentability. The rules do not define fraud or inequitable conduct which have elements both of materiality and of intent. The Office does not advocate any change to the Kingsdown ruling.

Comment 11. Two comments stated that the proposed modification of §1.56 would make submission of information to the Office an implied admission of the prima facie unpatentability of a claim. Several comments suggested that a sentence should be added to proposed §1.56 to specify that submission of information to the Office under this section shall not be deemed to be an admission or representation that the information is material to patentability.

Reply: The suggestions in the comments have been adopted by modifying §1.97 which deals with submission of information to the Office. Paragraph (h) of §1.97 now provides that the filing of an information disclosure statement shall not be considered to be an admission that the information cited in the statement is, or is to be considered to be, material to patentability as defined in §1.56.

Comment 12. One comment stated that the proposed §1.56 definition would be difficult to apply in litigation in which a different burden-of-proof standard is applied.

Reply: The definition of information material to patentability includes standards which are familiar to the Federal courts and which are capable of being handled like other issues.

Comment 13. One comment suggested that the last sentence of proposed §1.56(a), in which the Office encourages applicants to carefully examine prior art cited in foreign search reports and the closest known information, be removed from the rule and be placed in the preamble discussion so as to avoid the interpretation that the sentence creates a duty for applicants.

Reply: The suggestion is not adopted. The sentence does not create any new duty for applicants, but is placed in the text of the rule as helpful guidance to individuals who file and prosecute patent applications.

Comment 14. Three comments stated that the language of proposed §1.56(a) required revision to remove all statements or suggestions which might allow a court to consider a pending (i.e., unissued) claim for the purpose of determining whether the duty of disclosure requirement was met in view of the fact that the proposed rule was intended to indicate that there is no duty to disclose information which is material to a pending claim unless that claim ultimately issues in a patent. One comment argued that a court might interpret "the duty of candor and good faith" to be broader than the particular duty of disclosure specified in other portions of the proposed rule.

Reply: The language of §§1.56 and 1.555 has been modified to emphasize that there is a duty of candor and good faith which is broader than the duty to disclose material information. Section 1.56 further states that "no patent will be granted on an application in connection with which fraud on the Office was practiced or attempted or the duty of disclosure was violated through bad faith or intentional misconduct."

Comment 15. One comment suggested that proposed §1.56(a) be modified to clarify that both information and its materiality must be known before there is a duty to disclose the information.

Reply: The Office considers the language of §1.56(a) to be sufficiently clear in referring to a "duty to disclose to the Office all information known to that individual to be material to patentability as defined in this section." If information is known to be material, it inherently must be known. Likewise, if information is not known to an individual, there is no duty to disclose the information whether it is material or not.

Comment 16. One comment stated that it should be made clear that "known" is limited to contemporaneous knowledge since a practitioner may have known something ten years ago but may not remember it presently.

Reply: Section 1.56 states that each individual associated with the filing and prosecution of a patent application has a duty to disclose all information known to that individual to be material to patentability as defined in the section. Thus, the duty applies to contemporaneously or presently known information. The fact that information was known years ago does not mean that it was recognized that the information is material to the present application.

Comment 17. One comment suggested that proposed §1.56(a) be modified to state that the duty of disclosure ends when an application becomes abandoned or allowed.

Reply: Paragraph (a) of §1.56 states that the duty to disclose information exists until the application becomes abandoned. The duty to disclose information, however, does not end when an application becomes allowed but extends until a patent is granted on that application. The rules provide for information being considered after a notice of allowance is mailed and before the issue fee is paid (§1.97(d)) and for an application to be withdrawn from issue after the issue fee has been paid. An application may be withdrawn from issue because one or more claims are unpatentable (§1.313(b)(3)) or an application may be withdrawn from issue and abandoned so that information may be considered in a continuing application before a patent issues (§1.313(b)(5)).

Comment 18. Three comments stated that the first two sentences of proposed §1.56(a) should be deleted since rules should simply instruct practitioners what to do without discussion of why they should do it or the philosophy involved.

Reply: The suggestion has not been adopted since the sentences aid in the understanding of the rule and will provide those involved in enforcing patents with an indication of the policy on which the rule is based.

Comment 19. One comment stated that §§1.56(a)(2) and (c) should be modified to refer to "individuals substantively associated with" the filing or prosecution of the patent application.

Reply: The suggestion is not adopted since the proposed rule language is clear and the suggested modification would create a redundancy with the language of §1.56(c)(3). The individuals designated in §§1.56(c)(1) and (2) as being associated with the filing or prosecution of a patent application within the meaning of the section are inherently substantively involved in the preparation or prosecution of the application.

Comment 20. One comment stated that proposed §1.56(b) should be modified to clarify that information is not material if it is cumulative to information already of record in an application or to information concurrently being made of record.

Reply: The suggestion has been adopted by adding a reference to information being made of record with regard to cumulative information in §§1.56(b) and 1.555(b).

Comment 21. One comment stated that the preamble discussion (of §1.56(b)) should indicate that test results in situations such as tests involving biological systems may properly be submitted as averages rather than as individual test runs.

Reply: Whether test results can be submitted as averages rather than as individual test runs depends on whether doing so would provide to the Office the information needed to make a proper determination on patentability. If the actual results are provided, the examiner can make an independent determination on whether some rejection is appropriate. In some cases providing averages might be misleading, but in other cases providing averages might be appropriate.

Comment 22. One comment stated that the definition of materiality in proposed §1.56(b) imposes substantial new burdens on applicants who would be required to disclose failed experiments, papers published less than one year prior to filing and experimental public uses even if they clearly are refutable and will not affect patentability. One comment stated that the proposed rule would require applicants to incur added expense for affidavits and comparison tests. Five comments stated that the Office should not require applicants to present results from clearly invalid tests since this would be contrary to usual scientific practice. One comment argued that information should not be required to be submitted if there was no doubt that it would not preclude patentability, e.g., where common ownership existed so that the exception of 35 U.S.C. 103, second paragraph, would apply.

Reply: The definition of materiality in §1.56 does not impose substantial new burdens on applicants, but is intended to provide the Office with the information it needs to make a proper and independent determination on patentability. It is the patent examiner who should make the determination after considering all the facts involved in the particular case. The comments reflect that the Office objective of clarifying what information the Office considers to be material has been accomplished by the amendment of the rules.

Comment 23. One comment suggested that §1.56 should confine the duty of disclosure to references known to applicant or the practitioner representing applicant and not found in prior art materials in the Office.

Reply: This suggestion is not adopted since information may be in the Office but not in the application file. It is not reasonable to assume that an examiner knows of a particular item of information or appreciates its relevance to a particular invention simply because it exists somewhere in the Office.

Comment 24. One comment stated that the language "or in combination with other information" should be removed from proposed §1.56(b)(1) because it was unworkable to require an applicant to combine references against its own claims, especially since, according to the commentator, examiners and the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences frequently misapply the law. Another comment stated that the language creates an open field for litigators to claim that an inordinate number of references could be combined.

Reply: The rule does not require an applicant to combine references against its own claims. The applicant can submit information to the Office for the examiner's consideration whether the information is considered material or not. The fact that the teachings of a large number of references must be combined for a prima facie case of obviousness does not by itself weigh against a holding of obviousness. See In re Gorman. 933 F.2d 982, 18 USPQ2d 1885 (Fed. Cir. 1991).

Comment 25. Four comments stated that the definition of "prima facie case of unpatentability" §1.56(b)(1)) should be included in the rule itself. One comment said that the definition should not be included in the rule.

Reply: The definition has been included in the rule for clarity.

Comment 26. One comment stated that the proposed §1.56(b)(1) placed a burden on the practitioner to analyze references that is inappropriate and contradictory to a practitioner's responsibility to his client.

Reply: The rule itself does not place a burden on the practitioner to analyze references. Information can be submitted to the Office in accordance with §§1.97 and 1.98, and the examiner will consider the references.

Comment 27. One comment questioned whether an applicant would be charged with withholding material information if the "other information" (§1.56(b)(1)) necessary to cause an undisclosed reference to become material is unknown to the applicant. Another comment suggested that the language should be changed to read "other known information" to show that the information must be known to applicant to give rise to a duty of disclosure.

Reply: Paragraph (b) of §1.56 defines information material to patentability. While information may be material under the definition, there is no duty on an individual to disclose the information if the information is unknown to the individual (§1.56(a)).

Comment 28. One comment suggested that defining materiality in §1.56(b) in terms of prima facie unpatentability would permit a conspiracy of silence in which (1) the applicant knows of information but is incapable of making the legal analysis to determine whether the information is material and (2) the patent practitioner, who is equipped to determine whether information is material, does not know of the information and does not ask. Thus, it is argued there would be no violation of the duty of disclosure which requires knowledge of both information and its materiality.

Reply: The Office has set forth what information should be submitted so that the Office can make a proper determination on patentability. The term "conspiracy" has the connotation of unlawfulness which would not be consistent with the duty of candor and good faith required in dealings with the Office.

Comment 29. One comment suggested that proposed §1.56(b)(1) should be revised to read "in combination with other information already of record in the application" to avoid the possibility that undisclosed material could be considered material in subsequent litigation when combined with information not known at the time of the prosecution to any person substantively involved in the preparation or prosecution of the application.

Reply: Paragraph (a) of §1.56 makes it clear that the Office recognizes that the duty to disclose material information is limited to such information which is known by an individual substantively involved in the preparation or prosecution of the application. Thus, while information may be material under the definition of §1.56(b)(1), there can be no duty to disclose the information if it is material only in combination with unknown information.

Comment 30. One comment stated that proposed §1.56(b) should be modified so that paragraph (b)(1) refers to information that renders a claim unpatentable ("but for"), paragraph (b)(2) remains as proposed, and a paragraph (b)(3) is added to include the definition of materiality as "the closest information over which any pending claim patentably defines." This comment suggested that this modified definition would have the advan- tage of not requiring the applicant to submit references which applicant knows are immaterial and to then engage in "straw man" arguments based on such references.

Reply: The suggested modification to §1.56 has not been adopted. The suggested language would seemingly require information to be filed in each application, whether the information is relevant or not, since the "closest information" would be required. Section 1.56 does not require information which is not relevant to be submitted, but only information which meets the definition of material as set out in the rule.

Comment 31. One comment stated that if proposed §1.56(b)(1) is promulgated, there would be no need for proposed §1.56(b)(2) with regard to information which would make a prima facie case of unpatentability and other information required by paragraph (b)(2) might be obscure. Another comment argued that paragraph (b)(2) was unnecessary, confusing and ambiguous and suggested changes in the language to make the requirement clear and less ambiguous.

Reply: The suggestion as to the language change to §1.56(b)(2) has been adopted. The final rule language avoids the perceived problem of requiring an applicant to submit information supporting a position taken by the examiner. It is not appropriate, however, to eliminate paragraph (b)(2) because it is an essential part of the definition of information material to patentability and will help to ensure that all material facts are brought to the attention of the examiner during the examination process.

Comment 32. One comment questioned the language of proposed §1.56(b)(2) as to how an applicant could consider a prior art reference as supporting a position of unpatentability taken by the Office while at the same time disputing that interpretation.

Reply: The language of §1.56(b)(2) has been modified to clarify that information is material to patentability if it refutes, or is inconsistent with, a position the applicant takes in (1) opposing an argument of unpatentability relied on by the Office, or (2) asserting an argument of patentability.

Comment 33. One comment stated that §1.56(b)(2) was flawed in requiring a duty to conduct a file search to make sure that no information exists which even arguably contradicts a position taken or to be taken in response to the examiner, or which supports the examiner's position which may be improper.

Reply: Section 1.56(b)(2) does not require a search of files. Under §1.56(a), the duty of disclosure is confined to that information which is known to an individual to be material as defined in paragraph (b).

Comment 34. One comment stated that proposed §1.56(c) should be modified so that the duty of any individual designated as having a duty of disclosure would terminate when such individual ceases to be substantively involved in the preparation or prosecution of the application. The comment used, as an example, an inventor who would not be aware of art cited by the examiner which would cause information known to the inventor to fall within the definition of materiality for the first time.

Reply: The suggestion in the comment is not adopted. The duty to disclose information material to patentability rests on the individuals designated in §1.56(c) until the application issues as a patent or becomes abandoned. Paragraph (a) of §1.56 makes it clear, however, that each individual has a duty to disclose only information which is known to that individual to be material.

Comment 35. One comment stated that proposed §1.56(c)(3) should not include the assignee, or anyone to whom there is an obligation to assign the application, in the class of those who have a duty to disclose material information since there might be a "witch hunt" during litigation to find one employee with knowledge of, or possession of, information that should have been disclosed.

Reply: No modification to §1.56(c)(3) is needed since §1.56 sets forth that only individuals who are associated with the filing and prosecution of a patent application have a duty of candor and good faith, including a duty to disclose to the Office all information known to be material to patentability.

Comment 36. One comment stated that proposed §1.56(d) should be revised to expressly allow an inventor to satisfy the duty by disclosing information to the practitioner who prepares or prosecutes the application so that redundant information disclosure statements will not be required from both the inventor and the attorney or agent.

Reply: The suggestion in the comment is not adopted since the duty as described in §1.56 will be met as long as the information in question was cited by the Office or submitted to the Office in the manner prescribed by §§1.97(b)-(d) and 1.98 before issuance of the patent. Statements from both an inventor and the practitioner are not required to be submitted.

Comment 37. One comment stated that proposed §§1.52(c) and 1.67(c) should be modified to either (1) expressly permit alterations to be made in an application subsequent to the signing of the oath or declaration if a supplemental oath or declaration is later submitted, or (2) more properly, prohibit such alterations since if alterations are desirable, they can be made and the application can be filed with an unsigned oath or declaration. Another comment stated that willfully filling out false oaths should never be condoned.

Reply: The Office does not condone willfully filling out false oaths. Further, §10.23(c))(11) indicates that the Office considers it misconduct for a practitioner to knowingly file or cause to be filed an application containing a material alteration made after the signing of an accompanying oath or declaration without identifying the alteration. The Office will not consider striking an application in which an alteration was made, but a supplemental oath or declaration is required to be filed in an application containing alterations made after the signing of the oath or declaration.

Comment 38. One comment stated that the implementation of proposed §§1.63(b)(3) and 1.175(a)(7) allows for a two-month delay in the deadline for requiring declarations complying therewith.

Reply: The averments in oath or declaration forms presently in use that comply with the previous §1.63 or §1.175 will also comply with the requirements of the new rules. Therefore, the Office will continue to accept the old oath or declaration forms as complying with the new rules.

Comment 39. Five comments questioned the need for the proposed rules since statistics show that information disclosure statements are submitted early in prosecution and questioned what new service is being provided for the proposed fee in §1.97.

Reply: The Office desires to continue to encourage information to be submitted promptly so that it can be considered by the examiner when the first Office action is prepared. Some people have expressed a desire to have the option of waiting to submit information until after the first Office action, without concern that they will be subject to a charge of inequitable conduct. Section 1.97(c), as amended, will provide this option to applicants in that information will be considered later than three months after the filing date of the application (§1.97(a) prior to amendment) without a showing of promptness (prior §1.99). The fee will compensate the Office for the added expense caused by the late submission of the information and will serve as a disincentive to the intentional withholding of information even for a short period of time.

Comment 40. Two comments suggested that proposed §1.97(a) be modified so that the mechanism of proposed §1.98 would not be the only acceptable technique for submitting information.

Reply: The Office has set forth the minimum requirements for information to be considered in §§1.97 and 1.98. These rules will provide certainty for the public of exactly what the requirements are, when the Office will consider information and when the Office will not consider information. Thus, applicants are provided with means for complying with the duty of disclosure by following the rules. If information is submitted in a manner so that it is not considered by the Office, applicant will assume the risk that a court might find a violation of the duty of candor and good faith which includes the duty to disclose material information.

Comment 41. Four comments suggested that information which is recognized by applicant as being material after the period set in proposed §1.97(b) as the result of prior art cited by the examiner should be permitted to be submitted to the Office without the fee set forth in 1.17(p), the certification or the petition fee required by §1.97.

Reply: The suggestion in the comments is not adopted since it would require a certification, e.g., why the information was just recognized as being material, and would unduly complicate the rules and the procedures for considering information submitted by applicant. Applicants can avoid or, at least, minimize the problem by submitting information which is known to be relevant to the application even though it is not yet recognized as being required to be submitted because it is material to patentability. The fees charged are to compensate the Office for the additional work that will be necessary when information is submitted during an advanced stage of the examination process.

Comment 42. Two comments suggested that the period for submitting information set in proposed §1.97(b) be changed to be two months from the issuance of the Official Filing Receipt to avoid information disclosure statements being misrouted in the Office.

Reply: The suggestion in the comment is not adopted. The date that the Filing Receipt is mailed is not maintained in the application file so there would be administrative difficulty in determining when a fee or certification is required to be filed under the new rule. An application can be filed with a self-addressed return postcard so that applicant can obtain the serial number assigned to the application very soon after filing. Further, information may be filed under §1.97(b) before the mailing of a first Office action on the merits even if this occurs later than three months after the application filing date.

Comment 43. One comment questions whether §1.97(b) or §1.97(d) applies in the event of issuance of a final rejection within three months of the filing of an application. The comment indicated that paragraph (b) should apply in this situation.

*Reply:*Paragraph (b) would apply in this situation since the paragraph specifies that information may be filed within three months of the filing date of the application or before the mailing date of a first Office action on the merits, whichever event occurs last. Thus, information would be considered pursuant to §1.97(b) if it was filed within three months of the filing date of the application even if a final rejection was mailed prior to three months from the filing date.

Comment 44. One comment stated that proposed §1.97(b)(1) should be clarified to indicate that "the filing of a national application" includes "a continuing application which replaces the original application."

Reply: The suggested modification has not been adopted since it is not necessary for clarity. The term "national application" includes continuing applications in this and the other patent rules. It is not desirable to add the suggested language to all occurrences of the term "application" in the rules or to raise the implication that continuing applications are not included in the term in other rules by adding the suggested language to this rule.

Comment 45. One comment stated that proposed §1.97 should be changed to state that if a responsible party becomes aware of material information less than three months before issuance of an Office action, that information will be considered timely filed if it is submitted together with the response to the action. The comment also stated that the Office could go farther and implement a rule which specifies that such information will be considered timely submitted if it reaches the examiner before the response to the Office action is taken up for consideration. Three other comments stated that the Office should accept information disclosure statements with responses to Office actions, with one comment arguing that there is no benefit in submitting two papers where one would suffice.

Reply: The suggestions in the comments are not adopted. The rule as proposed and promulgated has the advantage of being relatively easy to comply with and administer. Information should be submitted promptly so that the examiner will have the option of reviewing the information and withdrawing or revising the Office action. Requiring information to be submitted promptly contributes to the efficiency of the examination process.

Comment 46. One comment stated that there should be no fee in §1.97 associated with the filing of an information disclosure statement since this might impact negatively on the submission of material information; rather, it would be sufficient to permit material information submitted subsequent to a non-final action to support a final rejection in the next action, in the absence of the certification proposed in the rules. Another comment, however, stated that the proposed fee requirement would not be a disincentive to submission of prior art, but would force examiners to consider certain art which under current practice often is not made of record, but instead, requires the filing of a continuation application.

Reply: The fee required in the rule will serve both to cover additional expense caused the Office by the late submission of information and will also serve as a disincentive to failing to cooperate in submitting information early in the prosecution of an application rather than as a disincentive to submitting information at all.

Comment 47. One comment questioned whether information in an information disclosure statement submitted during the period set forth by proposed §1.97(c) could be used by an examiner to make the next action final if the statement was submitted with a certification under §1.97(e).

Reply: Information submitted with a certification during the period set forth in §1.97(c) will not be used to make the next Office action final on unamended claims since in this situation it is clear that applicant has submitted the information to the Office promptly after it has become known and the information is being submitted prior to a final determination on patentability by the Office.

Comment 48. One comment stated that it was unfair for the Office to require a fee for considering information pursuant to proposed §1.97(c) and then also be able to use the information in making the Office action final.

Reply: The policy is not considered to be unfair. If information is submitted during the period set forth in §1.97(c) without the certification, the fee will compensate the Office for extra work that may be caused by the failure to submit information promptly. If the cost for this extra work were not placed upon the applicant in this situation, the cost would have to be borne by all applicants through payment of higher fees. The possibility that the next Office action may be made final will further encourage prompt disclosure of information to the Office.

Comment 49. One comment suggested that information should be considered (§1.97(c)) after final rejection, since this is different from after allowance when the Office would have to go back and reconsider its work. Two comments stated that proposed §1.97(c)(1) should not penalize applicants who receive a foreign search report after a final rejection is made in the application and that the certification under §1.97(e) should be available until an advisory action after final rejection or a notice of allowability occurs in the application. Another comment stated that final action may not even be on the merits but merely administrative.

Reply: The suggestions in the comments are not adopted. Both a notice of allowance and a final rejection represent a final Office decision on patentability. Information considered after either of these actions may require the Office to alter its position. After either of these actions, information will be considered only if it is submitted promptly in accordance with §1.97(d) or is submitted in a refiled application. It should be noted that information cited in a foreign search report, if cited to the Office within three months of the date on the search report, will be considered by the Office if filed before payment of the issue fee.

Comment 50. One comment stated that proposed §1.97(d) would result in unequal treatment of U.S. inventors who file first in the Office as compared to foreign inventors who file first in a foreign country since the latter will have the results of the search made by the foreign examining country earlier in the pendency of the U.S. application. Six comments suggested that a U.S. inventor should have the ability to make the certification of §1.97(e) and to have the Office consider the information, regardless of the stage of prosecution at which information from a foreign office is submitted.

Reply: It should be noted that the certification of §1.97(e) can be made and information considered by the Office until the issue fee is paid on the application. After the issue fee has been paid on an application, it is impractical for the Office to attempt to consider newly submitted information. The application may be withdrawn from issue at this point, however, pursuant to §1.313(b)(5) so that the information can be considered in a continuing application, or pursuant to §1.313(b)(3) if applicant states that one or more claims are unpatentable over the information that is cited. It is further noted that it is applicants, not the Office, who make decisions on when and in which countries to file an application. U.S. inventors who may desire to seek patent protection in foreign countries have the ability to utilize the provisions of the Patent Cooperation Treaty and to delay the requirement to enter the national stage until after a search report on the invention is made.

Comment 51. One comment questioned whether a certification under §1.97(e) could properly be made in situations where information known by the applicant but not considered material is cited by a foreign patent office more than three months later than the first knowledge by applicant.

Reply: The language of §1.97(e) has been modified to permit a certification to be made in the situation described in the comment. If an item of information is submitted within three months of being cited in a communication from a foreign patent office in a counterpart foreign patent application, the certification can be properly made regardless of any individual's previous knowledge of the information.

Comment 52. One comment stated that the three-month time period for submitting information from foreign patent offices under proposed §1.97(e) might be too short because not all foreign offices provide copies of references and that the Office should provide for a petition in unusual circumstances. Five comments stated that a three-month time limit for filing foreign search reports is not reasonable but rather that six months would be more reasonable.

Reply: The Office has chosen the three month time period as appropriate in view of all the factors involved in obtaining information and in the examination process. It should be noted that Office actions typically set a three-month shortened statutory period for response. A response to an Office action generally requires more time for preparation than is involved in the submitting of a foreign search report and copies of the documents cited.

Comment 53. Five comments suggested that §1.97(e) should permit a certification to be made if an individual knew of information for more than three months before it was filed but did not recognize its materiality or relevance to the application.

Reply: The suggestion in the comments is not adopted. The Office desires to encourage prompt evaluation of information as to materiality by applicants and the Office so as to contribute to the efficiency and effectiveness of the examination process. It should be noted that an applicant is not required to delay the submission of information while evaluating materiality, but can submit the information pursuant to §§1.97 and 1.98.

Comment 54. One comment stated that proposed §1.97(e) should be clarified to specify that the certificates can be made regardless of the source of the information being submitted, so long as it is disclosed within three months of receipt. One comment stated that the three-month period of proposed §1.97(e) should be measured from the receipt date of a communication from a foreign patent office.

Reply. A certification under §1.97(e) can be made if each item of information was cited in a communication from a foreign patent office in a counterpart foreign application not more than three months prior to filing the statement. A certification can also be made if no item of information was cited in a communication from a foreign patent office in a counterpart foreign application or was known to any individual designated in §1.56(c) more than three months prior to filing the information disclosure statement. The Office wishes to encourage prompt evaluation of the relevance of information and to have a date certain for determining if a certification can properly be made. Although it is recognized that an individual actually becomes aware of the information in the communication from a foreign patent office sometime after it was mailed, the mailing date of such a communication, if it occurs prior to a first awareness of the same information, would determine the date for filing of an information disclosure statement without a fee. The Office is willing to absorb any additional cost in considering such information relevant to patentability after the time set in proposed paragraph (b) only when it is clear that an applicant is diligent in providing the information to the Office.

Comment 55. One comment stated that the cost of making a certification under §1.97(e) would be more than the $200.00 fee proposed where no certification is made due to difficulties in obtaining information from foreign clients. The comment suggested that the rule provide for (1) the opportunity to provide documentation (as opposed to certification) illustrating when the information was received, and (2) the opportunity to submit information with increasing fees depending on when in the periods of §1.97(c) and (d) the information is submitted.

Reply: The suggestions in the comment are not adopted since they would add undue complexity to the rules and procedures. Further, the suggested provision of documentation, which presumably would be reviewed by someone in the Office, would probably add considerably to the overall expense of filing an information disclosure statement. No other comments indicated a desire for increasing fees depending on when the information is submitted.

Comment 56. Two comments stated that proposed §1.97(e) is ambiguous in using the language "to the knowledge of the person signing the certification" in that it could refer to "information and belief," "actual knowledge of the facts" or "no knowledge to the contrary." One comment stated that certifications should be able to be made on information and belief by a U.S. attorney or agent submitting a material reference received from a foreign patent attorney or agent, rather than requiring a certification from the foreign individual. Another comment suggested that the period should be calculated from when the applicant either knew or could have known of the reference because the U.S. attorney should not be penalized for delays from their foreign patent associates.

Reply: The certification under §1.97(e) should be made by a person who has knowledge of the facts being certified. The certification can be made by a practitioner who represents a foreign client and who relies on statements made by the foreign client as to the date the information first became known. A practitioner who receivas information from a client without being informed whether the information was known for more than three months, however, cannot make the certification without making reasonable inquiry.

Comment 57. One comment stated that the language of proposed §1.97(e) would preclude the use of the certification in an application by corporations whose practitioners have over the years reviewed thousands of patents and technical publications, even though they are unaware of the relevance of any one thereof to the application.

Reply: The language of §1.97(e) is not intended to preclude use of the certification by representatives of corporations. The certification can be based on present, good faith knowledge about when information became known without a search of files being made. The Office, however, does desire to have information considered promptly by applicants as to materiality and to have information submitted to the Office early in the prosecution of an application.

Comment 58. One comment suggested that proposed §1.97(e) should permit certification only as to information submitted within four months of receipt from a foreign patent office, with all other late-submitted information requiring a fee so as to not open a legal quagmire implicit in the proposed certification requirement.

Reply: The suggestion in the comment is not adopted. The certification set forth in §1.97(e) is preferable since it provides the avoidance of the payment of a fee by a person who is submitting information promptly to the Office. An applicant has the option under the circumstances described in §1.97(c), however, to not make the certification and to pay the fee instead if so desired.

Comment 59. One comment suggested that proposed §1.97(f) be modified to specify that not less than one month will be given if a bona fide attempt is made to comply with §1.98 but part of the required content is omitted. Another comment suggested that §1.97(f) should state that the Office will give (rather than may give) additional time for compliance with §1.98.

Reply: The suggestions in the comments are not adopted. The language of §1.97(f) parallels present §1.135(c) since the practice and considerations are similar for both rules. The Office intends to provide one month to comply with §1.98 where a bona fide attempt has been made to do so.

Comment 60. One comment stated that proposed §1.97(f) should specify that the Office shall inform the applicant if a reference will not be considered due to noncompliance with §1.98 so as to avoid any argument in litigation that a certain reference was not considered due to clerical noncompliance.

Reply: The Office plans to notify applicants in accordance with §§1.97(f) and (i) if submitted information will not be considered. The examiner will also indicate in the application record what information has been considered. Further details will appear in the Manual of Patent Examining Procedure in due course.

Comment 61. One comment suggested that proposed §1.97(g) should be modified to state that the filing of an information disclosure statement shall not be construed as a representation that no other material information exists such as is set forth in current §1.97(b).

Reply: The suggestion in the comment has not been adopted since referring to "no other material information" would imply that the information being submitted was admitted to be material. There is no requirement that information being submitted be material to the application.

Comment 62. One comment suggested that proposed §1.97(h) be modified to state that information not considered by the Office will be deemed in all respects to have not been submitted by the applicant since this would make a noncompliant submission clearly not a fulfillment of the duty of candor.

Reply: The suggestion in the comment is not adopted. The Office has no need or desire to rule on lack of fulfillment of the duty of candor in such a situation. The rules are drafted such that §1.56 sets forth what information is material to patentability and §§1.97 and 1.98 set forth procedures to assure consideration of information by the Office.

Comment 63. One comment stated the Office has a duty to consider information even if this involves withdrawing an application from issue or publishing a cancellation notice and that proposed §1.97(h) should be changed to so state. Another comment stated that it would be an abdication of the duty that the Office owes to the public for information in the file to be ignored since issuance of an invalid patent can be used to discourage others in the field. The comment suggested that the Office should leave in doubt whether the information will be considered or not.

Reply: It is necessary for the Office to balance its need and desire to consider all information relevant to an application with its need for an efficient operation and its capability to consider information at various stages in the prosecution of an application. The Office is setting forth when information will and will not be considered to provide certainty for the public.

Comment 64. One comment requested information on how a United States patent application or other information (§1.98(a)(1)(iii)) should be listed on a PTO 1449 form.

Reply: The PTO 1449 has been drafted so as to provide spaces for listing documents which are available to the public and which will be printed on the patent at issuance. Other information should be listed separately from the PTO 1449 form.

Comment 65. One comment stated that §1.98(a)(2)(i) should not require the submission by applicants of United States patents listed in an information disclosure statement since the Office is better equipped to provide examiners with copies of those documents than inventors and their attorneys. Alternatively, the comment suggested that the Office should establish a procedure whereby an order for the Office to provide the copies of the patents at the usual fee can accompany the information disclosure statement.

Reply: At the present time, when the Automated Patent System has not been fully implemented, the overall cost of the Office obtaining copies of patents and associating them with application files would be greater than for applicants to provide copies with information disclosure statements. Presumably, the applicant would be using a copy of the patent in preparing the statement and could easily make a copy for submission to the Office.

Comment 66. One comment suggested that §1.98(a)(2)(iii), as proposed, be clarified by substituting "except that no copy of a U.S. patent application need be included" for the proposed phrase "except a U.S. patent application."

Reply: The suggested clarification to the language of the rule has been adopted.

Comment 67. A number of comments objected to the requirement in §1.98(a)(3) for a concise explanation of the relevance of all items of information being submitted.

Reply: In response to the comments, §1.98(a)(3) has been modified to require a concise explanation only of patents, publications or other information listed in an information disclosure statement that are not in the English language. Applicants may, if they wish, provide concise explanations of why English-language information is being submitted and how it is understood to be relevant. Concise explanations are helpful to the Office, particularly where documents are lengthy and complex and applicant is aware of a section that is highly relevant to patentability.

Comment 68. Five comments stated that the proposed rules should be modified to state that if information is being submitted from a foreign search report, the requirement for a concise explanation in proposed §1.98(a)(3) may be satisfied by submitting an English-language version of the search report.

Reply: The language of §1.98(a)(3) has been modified so that no concise explanation is required for information submitted in the English language. The concise explanation requirement for non-English language information may be met by the submission of an English language version of the search report indicating the degree of relevance found by the foreign office. It is not necessary that this detail be included in the rule.

Comment 69. Five comments questioned whether the requirement in proposed §1.98(a)(3) would be satisfied by a statement that the references were cited in the prosecution of a parent application.

Reply: The requirement in §1.98(a)(3) for a concise explanation of non-English language information would not be satisfied by a statement that a reference was cited in the prosecution of a parent application. The concise explanation must explain the relevance as presently understood by the person designated in §1.56(c) most knowledgeable about the content of the information.

Comment 70. One comment suggested that proposed §1.98(a)(3) should be modified to require a concise explanation of "what is believed to be" the relevance of information listed to avoid the accusation of violation of duty of disclosure merely because more relevant portions of the information are later found. Another comment suggested that the concise explanation should state what is "reasonably understood by the person submitting the statement." Another comment stated that the applicant should be required to explain (1) only what is understood or believed about the item of information at the time the disclosure is made, or (2) why the item is listed.

Reply: The suggestions in the comments have been substantially adopted in modifying the language of §1.98(a)(3).

Comment 71. One comment stated that proposed §1.98(b) should not require the date (unless material) and place of publication of journal articles since such information is not given on search reports from foreign patent offices or on journals published by the American Chemical Society, which just give the year. Another comment indicated that sometimes it is not clear where the place of publication is.

Reply: The suggestions in the comments are not adopted. The date of publication is necessary for the Office to be able to determine if the information may be used in a rejection of the claims in an application. The place of publication refers to the name of the journal, magazine or other publication in which the article was published, which should be available in the vast majority of cases.

Comment 72. One comment suggested that §1.98(c) should not require a translation of a non-English language document to be filed if a translation is within the possession, custody or control of an individual designated in §1.56(c) because such person may not recall that there is a translation somewhere in the records of the individual, perhaps having been made for another application years earlier.

Reply: The requirement of the rule for a translation to be submitted under limited conditions is not a change in practice. See prior §§1.56(j) and 1.97(b). Since the requirement has caused little, if any, problem in the past, the suggestion of the comment is not adopted.

Comment 73. One comment suggested that §1.98(c) should be revised to make it clear that a reference that is essentially cumulative to another reference need not be listed in an information disclosure statement.

Reply: The concept that cumulative information is not material is set forth in §1.56(b). Section 1.98 does not deal with what information must be submitted, but provides an exception for cumulative information to the requirement for a copy to be submitted of each item of information listed in an information disclosure statement.

Comment 74. One comment stated that a sentence in the preamble discussion of proposed §1.98(c) was burdensome because it would require submission of incomplete or inexact translations which may have been made of an item of information. The sentence in question reads:

> "But if the individual has the ability to translate the non-English language into English and has done so for the purposes of reviewing the information relative to the claimed invention, the translation would be considered 'readily available.'"

Another comment stated that proposed §1.98(c) should be modified to require a translation if the non-English language document is to be considered by the examiner since the attorney would want to prepare an accurate translation of particularly relevant references. One comment suggested that §1.98(c), or the preamble discussion, should make it clear that an English-language translation of a foreign language material reference need not be submitted where an individual merely reads in the reference in its original language and translates it mentally but does not prepare a written translation. Five other comments requested clarification on this point.

Reply: The Office does not intend to require translations unless they have been reduced to writing and are actually translations of what is contained in the non-English language information. Applicants should note, however, that most examiners do not have the ability to understand information which is not in English and that the Office will not routinely translate information submitted in a non-English language. The examiner will consider the information insofar as it is understood on its face, e.g., drawings, chemical formulas, English-language abstracts, but will not have the information translated unless it appears to be necessary to do so. Applicants are required to aid the examiner by complying with the requirements for a concise explanation in §1.98(a)(3) for information submitted in a non-English language.

Comment 75. One comment stated that §1.98(d) should be clarified to state that a copy of an item of information listed in an information disclosure statement need not be submitted if the reference was cited by the Office or previously submitted to the Office in connection with a prior application.

Reply: The suggestion in the comment is adopted. The language of §1.98(d) has been modified to state that a copy of an item of information is not required if it was previously cited by the Office or previously submitted to the Office in a prior application being relied on for an earlier filing date under 35 U.S.C. 120.

Comment 76. One comment suggested that proposed §1.98(d) should be revised to not require the submission of a copy of the information listed in an information disclosure statement if a copy of the information has previously been submitted to the Office in a prior application, whether or not the earlier application is being relied upon for an earlier filing date under 35 U.S.C. 120.

Reply: The suggestion in the comment is not adopted. The exception to the requirement for a copy of each item of information to be submitted has been made with regard to prior applications which will normally be available to, and considered by, the examiner. It would not be efficient for the examiner to be required to seek out unrelated application files to obtain a copy of an item of information when a copy could easily be submitted by applicant.

Comment 77. One comment questioned what would be considered "timely" under §1.291 so that information would be considered by the examiner without payment of a fee, in contrast to proposed §1.97 which may require a fee.

Reply: Section 1.291 has not been amended to redefine timeliness. The comment seems to imply that the fee requirements of §1.97 can be avoided through the use of a protest submitting information, but such a course of action might raise questions regarding compliance with the duty of candor and good faith required in dealings with the Office.

Comment 78. One comment stated that the Office should not drop the acknowledgment of a protest having been filed under §1.291 in a reissue application because the acknowledgment served as an indication that the protest had been received in the examining group from the mail room.

Reply: The suggestion in the comment is not adopted. Any perceived benefit from retaining the acknowledgment is outweighed by the administrative burden it causes. There is no good reason to treat the filing of protests in reissue applications differently from the filing of protests in original applications or from the filing of other papers in the Office.

Comment 79. One comment questioned whether an application could be withdrawn from issue pursuant to proposed §1.313(b)(5) without admitting unpatentability.

Reply: There is no requirement that unpatentability must be admitted before an application can be withdrawn from issue pursuant to §1.313(b)(5). The rule provides for applications to be withdrawn from issue and abandoned for consideration of information in a continuing application. This differs from a petition under §1.313(b)(3) based on unpatentability of one or more claims.

Comment 80. One comment questioned whether, if an application is withdrawn from issue pursuant to proposed §1.313(b)(5), an information disclosure statement can be submitted in the continuing application under §1.97(b) without a certification.

Reply: A continuing application is treated like any other application with regard to the times set forth in §1.97(b). Thus, for example, an information disclosure statement could be filed without a fee or certification in a continuing application within three months of the filing date of the continuing application

Comment 81. One comment questioned whether an application withdrawn from issue pursuant to §1.313(b)(5) could have new art and amendments considered in that application rather than in a continuing application. The comment also questioned the handling of applications withdrawn from issue pursuant to §1.313(b)(3).

Reply: The language of §1.313(b)(5) makes it clear that an application withdrawn from issue thereunder is to be abandoned without further prosecution. This differs from an application withdrawn from issue pursuant to §1.313(b)(3) because applicant had admitted the unpatentability of one or more claims.

Comment 82. One comment questioned whether the continuing application mentioned in proposed §1.313(b)(5) could be a file wrapper continuing application under §1.62 and how applicants can accomplish the withdrawal from issue under proposed §1.313(b) late in the prosecution of an application.

Reply: The continuing application mentioned in §1.313(b)(5) can be a file wrapper continuing application under §1.62. Even though §1.62 requires a file wrapper continuing application to be filed before the payment of the issue fee, the Office will consider the filing of a petition to withdraw from issue under §1.313(b)(5) as sufficient grounds to waive that requirement of §1.62. Late in the prosecution of an application, the Office has difficulty in matching papers with the application file. Papers requesting that an application be withdrawn from issue after the issue fee is paid should be directed, or preferably hand-carried, to the Office of Petitions in the Office of the Assistant Commissioner for Patents.

Comment 83. Seven comments suggested that §1.555(a) should not be amended to require the submission of "all information material to patentability" since a reexamination proceeding is limited to consideration of patents and printed publications.

Reply: The suggestion in the comments has been adopted. A paragraph (b), which defines what information is material to patentability in a reexamination proceeding, has been added to the rule.

Comment 84. One comment suggested that proposed §1.555(a) should be modified to make clear that there is no duty of disclosure on employees of a corporate patent owner if the employees are not substantively involved in the preparation of the reexamination request or the reexamination proceeding.

Reply: The suggestion in the comment to modify the language in §1.555(a) has not been adopted. The rule refers to individuals who are substantively involved on behalf of the patent owner in a reexamination proceeding.

Comment 85. Two comments stated that the Office should consider fraud or other inequitable conduct issues in interference proceedings.

Reply: The suggestion in the comments has been adopted. The Office will consider inequitable conduct issues in interference proceedings as announced on November 19, 1991, in the Official Gazette of the Patent and Trademark Office at 1132 Off. Gaz. Pat. Off. 33.

Comment 86. One comment requested more examples with regard to proposed §10.23(c)(10) of what alteration or combination of alterations in a declaration would be considered material.

Reply: It is not the function of the rules or the rulemaking process to provide a detailed listing of what alterations may be considered to be improper. This consideration will necessarily be made in view of the totality of the circumstances involved. Practitioners would be well advised to avoid filing applications which contain alterations which have not been initialed and dated.

Comment 87. Two comments stated that §10.23(c)(10) should be amended to prohibit knowingly attempting to mislead the Office in the drafting or prosecution of a patent application. One comment stated that attempted fraud or inequitable conduct would not be prohibited by proposed §10.23(c)(10) because such conduct would not be a violation of proposed §§1.56 or 1.555.

Reply: No amendment is necessary to the language of §10.23(c)(10). It should be noted that the duty of candor and good faith in dealing with the Office is included in §§1.56 and 1.555. This duty includes a prohibition against knowingly attempting to mislead the Office.

Comment 88. Five comments stated that it would be unfair to impose the new disclosure requirements and fees on applications that are pending before the Office on the effective date of the new rule. Another comment stated that the rules should be immediately effective for all pending applications with some grace period for making the initial disclosure without penalty and without fee.

Reply: The Office will apply the new rules to all applications pending on, or filed on or after, the effective date of the rules. While this implementation may cause some burden on some applicants, other applicants will obtain benefits not otherwise available. This decision will also ease the administrative burden on the Office in implementing the new rules.

Other Considerations

The rule change is in conformity with the requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., Executive Orders 12291 and 12612, and the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, 44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.

The General Counsel of the Department of Commerce has certified to the Small Business Administration that the rule change will not have a significant adverse economic impact on a substantial number of small entities (Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 605(b)) because the rules as adopted do not require individuals to submit information that they are not already aware of and are not already under an obligation to provide to the Office. The rules further promote the efficiency of the examination process by encouraging a timely submission of an information disclosure statement and by substantially eliminating rejections based on inequitable conduct, thereby reducing the costs to all patent applicants.

The Patent and Trademark Office has determined that this rule change is not a major rule under Executive Order 12291. The annual effect on the economy will be less than $100 million. There will be no major increase in costs or prices for consumers, individual industries, Federal, state or geographic regions. There will be no significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity or innovation, or on the ability of the United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

The Patent and Trademark Office has also determined that this rule change has no Federalism implications affecting the relationship between the National Government and the States as outlined in Executive Order 12612.

This rule contains a collection of information requirement subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act, which has previously been approved by the Office of Management and Budget under Control No. 0651-0011. Each information disclosure statement is estimated to take approximately 30 minutes, including time for reviewing instructions, gathering and maintaining data needed, and completing and reviewing the collection of information. The time estimate has been reduced from that stated in the proposal since the requirement for a concise explanation of the relevance of each item of information cited in an information disclosure statement has been limited to information submitted in a language other than English. Send comments regarding this burden estimate to the Patent and Trademark Office, Office of Management and Organization, and to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, Washington, D.C. 20503. 6. Section 1.56 is revised to read as follows:

§1.56 Duty to disclose information material to patentability.

(a) A patent by its very nature is affected with a public interest. The public interest is best served, and the most effective patent examination occurs when, at the time an application is being examined, the Office is aware of and evaluates the teachings of all information material to patentability. Each individual associated with the filing and prosecution of a patent application has a duty of candor and good faith in dealing with the Office, which includes a duty to disclose to the Office all information known to that individual to be material to patentability as defined in this section. The duty to disclose information exists with respect to each pending claim until the claim is cancelled or withdrawn from consideration, or the application becomes abandoned. Information material to the patentability of a claim that is cancelled or withdrawn from consideration need not be submitted if the information is not material to the patentability of any claim remaining under consideration in the application. There is no duty to submit information which is not material to the patentability of any existing claim. The duty to disclose all information known to be material to patentability is deemed to be satisfied if all information known to be material to patentability of any claim issued in a patent was cited by the Office or submitted to the Office in the manner prescribed by §§1.97(b)-(d) and 1.98. However, no patent will be granted on an application in connection with which fraud on the Office was practiced or attempted or the duty of disclosure was violated through bad faith or intentional misconduct. The Office encourages applicants to carefully examine: (1) prior art cited in search reports of a foreign patent office in a counterpart application, and (2) the closest information over which individuals associated with the filing or prosecution of a patent application believe any pending claim patentably defines, to make sure that any material information contained therein is disclosed to the Office.

(b) Under this section, information is material to patentability when it is not cumulative to information already of record or being made of record in the application, and

(1) it establishes, by itself or in combination with other information, a prima facie case of unpatentability of a claim; or

(2) it refutes, or is inconsistent with, a position the applicant takes in:

(i) opposing an argument of unpatentability relied on by the Office, or

(ii) asserting an argument of patentability.

A prima facie case of unpatentability is established when the information compels a conclusion that a claim is unpatentable under the preponderance of evidence, burden-of-proof standard, giving each term in the claim its broadest reasonable construction consistent with the specification, and before any consideration is given to evidence which may be submitted in an attempt to establish a contrary conclusion of patentability.

(c) Individuals associated with the filing or prosecution of a patent application within the meaning of this section are:

(1) each inventor named in the application;

(2) each attorney or agent who prepares or prosecutes the application; and

(3) every other person who is substantively involved in the preparation or prosecution of the application and who is associated with the inventor, with the assignee or with anyone to whom there is an obligation to assign the application.

(d) Individuals other than the attorney, agent or inventor may comply with this section by disclosing information to the attorney, agent, or inventor.

7. Section 1.63, paragraphs (b)(3) and (d) are revised to read as follows:

§1.63 Oath or declaration.

* * * * *

(b) * * *

(3) Acknowledges the duty to disclose to the Office all information known to the person to be material to patentability as defined in §1.56.

(d) In any continuation-in-part application filed under the conditions specified in 35 U.S.C. 120 which discloses and claims subject matter in addition to that disclosed in the prior copending application, the oath or declaration must also state that the person making the oath or declaration acknowledges the duty to disclose to the Office all information known to the person to be material to patentability as defined in §1.56, which became available between the filing date of the prior application and the national or PCT international filing date of the continuation-in-part application.

8. Section 1.67 is amended by adding a new paragraph (c) to read as follows:

§1.67 Supplemental oath or declaration.

* * * * *

(c) A supplemental oath or declaration meeting the requirements of §1.63 must also be filed if the application was altered after the oath or declaration was signed or if the oath or declaration was signed:

(1) in blank;

(2) without review thereof by the person making the oath or declaration; or

(3) without review of the specification, including the claims, as required by §1.63(b)(1).

9. Section 1.97 is revised to read as follows:

§1.97 Filing of information disclosure statement.

(a) In order to have information considered by the Office during the pendency of a patent application, an information disclosure statement in compliance with §1.98 should be filed in accordance with this section.

(b) An information disclosure statement shall be considered by the Office if filed:

(1) within three months of the filing date of a national application;

(2) within three months of the date of entry of the national stage as set forth in §1.491 in an international application; or

(3) before the mailing date of a first Office action on the merits, whichever event occurs last.

(c) An information disclosure statement shall be considered by the Office if filed after the period specified in paragraph (b) of this section, but before the mailing date of either

(1) a final action under §1.113 or

(2) a notice of allowance under §1.311,

whichever occurs first, provided the statement is accompanied by either a certification as specified in paragraph (e) of this section or the fee set forth in §1.17(p).

(d) An information disclosure statement shall be considered by the Office if filed after the mailing date of either

(1) a final action under §1.113 or

(2) a notice of allowance under §1.311, whichever occurs first, but before payment of the issue fee, provided the statement is accompanied by:

(i) a certification as specified in paragraph (e) of this section,

(ii) a petition requesting consideration of the information disclosure statement, and

(iii) the petition fee set forth in §1.17(i)(1).

(e) A certification under this section must state either

(1) that each item of information contained in the information disclosure statement was cited in a communication from a foreign patent office in a counterpart foreign application not more than three months prior to the filing of the statement, or

(2) that no item of information contained in the information disclosure statement was cited in a communication from a foreign patent office in a counterpart foreign application or, to the knowledge of the person signing the certification after making reasonable inquiry, was known to any individual designated in §1.56(c) more than three months prior to the filing of the statement.

(f) No extensions of time for filing an information disclosure statement are permitted under §1.136. If a bona fide attempt is made to comply with §1.98, but part of the required content is inadvertently omitted, additional time may be given to enable full compliance.

(g) An information disclosure statement filed in accordance with this section shall not be construed as a representation that a search has been made.

(h) The filing of an information disclosure statement shall not be construed to be an admission that the information cited in the statement is, or is considered to be, material to patentability as defined in §1.56(b).

(i) Information disclosure statements, filed before the grant of a patent, which do not comply with this section and §1.98 will be placed in the file, but will not be considered by the Office.

10. Section 1.98 is revised to read as follows:
§1.98 Content of information disclosure statement.

(a) Any information disclosure statement filed under §1.97 shall include:

(1) A list of all patents, publications, or other information submitted for consideration by the Office;

(2) A legible copy of:

(i) Each U.S. and foreign patent;

(ii) Each publication or that portion which caused it to be listed; and

(iii) All other information or that portion which caused it to be listed, except that no copy of a U.S. patent application need be included; and

(3) A concise explanation of the relevance, as it is presently understood by the individual designated in §1.56(c) most knowledgeable about the content of the information, of each patent, publication, or other information listed that is not in the English language. The concise explanation may be either separate from the specification or incorporated therein.

(b) Each U.S. patent listed in an information disclosure statement shall be identified by patentee, patent number and issue date. Each foreign patent or published foreign patent application shall be identified by the country or patent office which issued the patent or published the application, an appropriate document number, and the publication date indicated on the patent or published application. Each publication shall be identified by author (if any), title, relevant pages of the publication, date and place of publication.

(c) When the disclosures of two or more patents or publications listed in an information disclosure statement are substantively cumulative, a copy of one of the patents or publications may be submitted without copies of the other patents or publications provided that a statement is made that these other patents or publications are cumulative. If a written English-language translation of a non-English language document, or portion thereof, is within the possession, custody or control of, or is readily available to any individual designated in §1.56(c), a copy of the translation shall accompany the statement.

(d) A copy of any patent, publication or other information listed in an information disclosure statement is not required to be provided if it was previously cited by or submitted to the Office in a prior application, provided that the prior application is properly identified in the statement and relied upon for an earlier filing date under 35 U.S.C. 120.

11. Section 1.99 is removed and reserved.

12. Section 1.175, paragraph (a)(7), is revised to read as follows:
§1.175 Reissue oath or declaration.

(a) * * *

(7) Acknowledging the duty to disclose to the Office all information known to applicants to be material to patentability as defined in § 1.56.

* * * * *

13. Section 1.193(c) is removed and reserved.
§1.193 Examiner's Answer.

14. Section 1.291, paragraphs (a) and (c), are revised to read as follows:
§1.291 Protests by the public against pending applications.

(a) Protests by a member of the public against pending applications will be referred to the examiner having charge of the subject matter involved. A protest specifically identifying the application to which the protest is directed will be entered in the application file if:

(1) the protest is timely submitted; and

(2) the protest is either served upon the applicant in accordance with §1.248, or filed with the Office in duplicate in the event service is not possible.

Protests raising fraud or other inequitable conduct issues will be entered in the application file, generally without comment on those issues. Protests which do not adequately identify a pending patent application will be disposed of and will not be considered by the Office.

* * * * *

(c) A member of the public filing a protest in an application under paragraph (a) of this section will not receive any communications from the Office relating to the protest, other than the return of a self-addressed postcard which the member of the public may include with the protest in order to receive an acknowledgment by the Office that the protest has been received. The Office may communicate with the applicant regarding any protest and may require the applicant to respond to specific questions raised by the protest. In the absence of a request by the Office, an applicant has no duty to, and need not, respond to a protest. The limited involvement of the member of the public filing a protest pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section ends with the filing of the protest, and no further submission on behalf of the protestor will be considered unless such submission raises new issues which could not have been earlier presented.

15. Section 1.313, paragraph (b), is revised to read as follows:
§1.313 Withdrawal from issue.

* * * * *

(b) When the issue fee has been paid, the application will not be withdrawn from issue for any reason except:

(1) a mistake on the part of the Office;

(2) a violation of §1.56 or illegality in the application;

(3) unpatentability of one or more claims;

(4) for interference; or

(5) for abandonment to permit consideration of an information disclosure statement under §1.97 in a continuing application.

16. Section 1.555 is revised to read as follows:
§1.555 Information material to patentability in reexamination proceedings.

(a) A patent by its very nature is affected with a public interest. The public interest is best served, and the most effective reexamination occurs when, at the time a reexamination proceeding is being conducted, the Office is aware of and evaluates the teachings of all information material to patentability in a reexamination proceeding. Each individual associated with the patent owner in a reexamination proceeding has a duty of candor and good faith in dealing with the Office, which includes a duty to disclose to the Office all information known to that individual to be material to patentability in a reexamination proceeding. The individuals who have a duty to disclose to the Office all information known to them to be material to patentability in a reexamination proceeding are the patent owner, each attorney or agent who represents the patent owner, and every other individual who is substantively involved on behalf of the patent owner in a reexamination proceeding. The duty to disclose the information exists with respect to each claim pending in the reexamination proceeding until the claim is cancelled. Information material to the patentability of a cancelled claim need no be submitted if the information is not material to patentability of any claim remaining under consideration in the reexamination proceeding. The duty to disclose all information known to be material to patentability in a reexamination proceeding is deemed to be satisfied if all information known to be material to patentability of any claim in the patent after issuance of the reexamination certificate was cited by the Office or submitted to the Office in an information disclosure statement. However, the duties of candor, good faith, and disclosure have not been complied with if any fraud on the Office was practiced or attempted or the duty of disclosure was violated through bad faith or intentional misconduct by, or on behalf of, the patent owner in the reexamination proceeding. Any information disclosure statement must be filed with the items listed in §1.98(a) as applied to individuals associated with the patent owner in a reexamination proceeding, and should be filed within two months of the date of the order for reexamination, or as soon thereafter as possible.

(b) Under this section, information is material to patentability in a reexamination proceeding when it is not cumulative to information of record or being made of record in the reexamination proceeding, and

(1) it is a patent or printed publication that establishes, by itself or in combination with other patents or printed publications, a prima facie case of unpatentability of a claim; or

(2) it refutes, or is inconsistent with, a position the patent owner takes in:

(i) opposing an argument of unpatentability relied on by the Office, or

(ii) asserting an argument of patentability.

A prima facie case of unpatentability of a claim pending in a reexamination proceeding is established when the information compels a conclusion that a claim is unpatentable under the preponderance of evidence, burden-of-proof standard, giving each term in the claim its broadest reasonable construction consistent with the specification, and before any consideration is given to evidence which may be submitted in an attempt to establish a contrary conclusion of patentability.

(c) The responsibility for compliance with this section rests upon the individuals designated in paragraph (a) of this section and no evaluation will be made by the Office in the reexamination proceeding as to compliance with this section. If questions of compliance with this section are discovered during a reexamination proceeding, they will be noted as unresolved questions in accordance with §1.552(c).

Part 10 - Representation of Others Before the Patent and Trademark Office

17. The authority citation for Part 10 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 5 U.S.C. 500; 15 U.S.C. 1123; 35 U.S.C. 6, 31, 32, 41.

18. Section 10.23, paragraphs (c)(10) and (c)(11), are revised to read as follows:

§10.23 Misconduct.

* * * * *

(c) * * *

(10) Knowingly violating or causing to be violated the requirements of §1.56 or §1.555 of this subchapter.

(11) Knowingly filing or causing to be filed an application containing any material alteration made in the application papers after the signing of the accompanying oath or declaration without identifying the alteration at the time of filing the application papers.

Reference Collections of U.S. Patents Available for Public Use in Patent Depository Libraries

The following libraries, designated as Patent Depository Libraries (PDLs), receive current issues of U.S. Patents and maintain collections of earlier-issued patents. The scope of these collections varies from library to library, ranging from patents of only recent years to all or most of the patents issued since 1790.

These patent collections, which are organized in patent number sequence, are available for use by the public free of charge. Each of the PDLs, in addition, offers supplemental reference publications of the U.S. Patent Classification System, including the Manual of Classification, Index to the U.S. Patent Classification, Classification Definitions, and provides technical staff assistance in their use to aid the public, in gaining effctive access to information contained in patents. CASSIS (Classification And Search Support Information System); which provides direct, on-line access to Patent and Trademark Office data, is available at all PDLs. Facilities for making paper copies of patents from either microfilm or paper collections are generally provided for a fee.

Since there are variations in the scope of patent collections among the PDLs and in their hours of service to the public, anyone contemplating use of the patents at a particular library is urged to contact that library, in advance, about its collection and hours in order to avert possible inconvenience.

SECTION 1.—INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION

The short titles associated below with the international class numbers are terms designed merely for quick identification and are not an official part of the international classification. The full names of international classes are given in section 6.1 of the trademark rules of practice.

SECTION 2.—INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION

The short titles associated below with the international class numbers are terms designed merely for quick identification and are not an official part of the international classification. The full names of international classes are given in section 6.1 of the trademark rules of practice.

The designation "U.S. Cl." appearing in this section refers to the U.S. class in effect prior to Sep. 1, 1973 rather than the international class which applies to applications filed on or after that date. For adoption of international classification see notice in the OFFICIAL GAZETTE of Jun. 26, 1973 (911 O.G. TM 210).
